Ohio Senate OKs Vote-18 Measure For Ballot Spot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate today passed by a vote of 311 a proposed amendment to the Ohio Constitution lowering the voting age to 18.

The proposed amendment, if now passed by the House, will be placed on the November ballot for state-wide approval.

Eighteen-year-old Ohioans can already vote in national elections as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision late last year.

In November 1969, a similar amendment lowering the voting age to 19 was defeated by 47-090 votes out of the 2.5 million cast in the state.

Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, the bill's floor leader, argued, however, that things have changed since then.

He cited not only the federal high court decision, but findings of his own committee studying the issue.

U.S. Sets Formosa Fight Aside

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a new move to improve relations with China, the United States is seeking to detach itself from the long quarrel between Peking and the Nationalist government over the status of Formosa.

Press officer Charles Bray also told a news conference Wednesday the ultimate settlement of the Formosa issue is a matter for negotiation between the two Chinese regimes. The United States should not be a go-between.

At the same time Bray reaffirmed the U.S. intention to abide by its defense commitments to the Nationalist government on Formosa. This came in the context of a statement that whatever solution is reached eventually "it should be accomplished by peaceful means."

The ultimate fate of Formosa, or Taiwan as it is otherwise known, has been a major issue raised by China over the years in scores of ambassadorial talks between the Peking government and the United States.

The new American move appears to be aimed at least in part in putting the issue aside insofar as the future development of Washington-Peking exchanges is concerned.

There are no indications whatever, diplomats report, that a direct negotiation between mainland China and Nationalist China over this or any other important question is likely in the predictable future.

New Jersey Embroiled In Gang War

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The jailing of many of New Jersey's top gangland figures has touched off what some law enforcement officials term a gang war over the vacancies. Four persons have been murdered and a possible fifth victim has disappeared.

Police officials in Hudson County, considered the state's most mob-ridden area, and members of the New Jersey State Police Organized Crime Unit believe that some gangland elements in New York are attempting to fill the void. The result has been the series of slayings, all of which involve relatively minor underworld figures, and all of which are unsolved.

In the past two years, after widespread publicity about organized crime in the state, many of the top names have been jailed.

They include Gerardo Catena, reputed successor to the late Vito Genovese as the leader of a Cosa Nostra family in the New York metropolitan area. He was found guilty of contempt for refusing to answer questions of the State Investigation Commission—SIC.

Also in jail is Simone Rizzo "Sam the Plumber" DeCavalcante, reputed head of a New Jersey Mafia family. He was convicted of extortion, sentenced to 15 years, and is awaiting trial on other charges although the extortion conviction has been overturned on appeal.

But law enforcement officials say the present battle involves the empire said to be controlled by Joseph "Joe Bayonne" Zicarelli, the reputed underworld boss of Bayonne and several adjacent sections of Hudson County. He was convicted earlier this month on conspiracy charges stemming from payoffs to local officials to protect his gambling operations, and has begun serving a 10-year prison term. He was in jail before that for refusing to answer SIC questions.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, in arguing for the resolution, suggested the effect of the bill would be to broaden the constituency of state government.

"And the broader the constituency, the more legitimate government becomes," he said.

The lone vote against the legislation was cast by Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-7 Logan. Armstrong also voted against the vote 19 Amendment in 1969.

The bill now goes to the House for action.

The House resumes its floor session at 1:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, each legislative chamber passed and went to the other two bills.

Rep. Gordon Scherer, R-71 Cincinnati, authored a House bill passed 82-10, expanding state assistance to persons displaced by federally financed land acquisitions.

The bill, Scherer said, is designed to bring Ohio law into line with provisions of the Federal Financial Relocation Act that allows up to $15,000 for the loss of business or farm income.

VC Hint Cease-Fire Possible

PARIS (AP)—The Viet Cong's foreign minister said today Communist command forces in Vietnam "are prepared to cease firing on American soldiers who do not undertake any hostile action against them."

The statement of Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh at the Paris peace talks was taken to mean that the Viet Cong might be willing to accept an unconditional cease-fire with American forces in South Vietnam.

The remark appeared unobtrusively in a prepared speech Mrs. Binh delivered at the 111th session of the talks.

There was no immediate reaction from the U.S. and South Vietnamese side.

Both Hanoi and the Viet Cong have hitherto invariably rejected all American cease-fire proposals unless the United States first set a date for the total withdrawal of its forces from South Vietnam.

Mr. Binh indicated indirectly that the Communist attitude may have changed.

She commented at length on a Viet Cong order of the day issued by the Communist command on Monday. The order urged American soldiers to desert and also said Viet Cong forces would not fire on American units which "are opposed to the war and undertake no hostile action."

Break In Capitol Bombing Case Comes With Arrest

Critics Still Try To Derail Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Railroad Passenger Corp. critics pleaded today for Congress and federal courts to grab the emergency cords and stop Amtrak even before it starts running its cutback collection of trains.

But, argued a spokesman for the embattled corporation, "We've done the best we can, we've told it like it is, and until either Congress or the courts tell us differently, we're going ahead under the law to meet that Saturday starting date."

Senate and House Commerce committees arranged continued Amtrak hearings today, while four suits were on U.S. District Court dockets here in connection with various issues involving the rail passenger system's plan.

The case for sudden delay has influential advocates on Capitol Hill—most of them from areas due to get little or no train service under current Amtrak network arrangements.

Among them is Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana who promises to rush to the Senate floor any bill that can stall the start of Amtrak's proposed intercity system for six months.

Other Amtrak plan-delay leaders are Senate Commerce Committee Chairman Warren

G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and his House counterpart, Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., who recently wrote Amtrak Board Chairman David W. Kendall urging steps to "preclude continuances of all existing service until Sept. 20."

Yet, the strongest voice remained Mansfield's. Repeatedly hostile to the new corporation's plans because he is unhappy over the one line planned for his home state, he told colleagues Wednesday:

"If Amtrak—or, perhaps, it should be called Halftrack as far as Montana is concerned—begins Saturday, it could well be a day of calamity for public transportation."

With that, and Magnuson's agreement with the Mansfield tactic, Commerce Committee aides quickly assembled proposed amendments for the 1970 Amtrak act. Magnuson called the panel to a private session today to review them.

Other Senate pressures could include a stall in acting on President Nixon's generally noncontroversial eight nominees for a new Amtrak board of directors—six of them carryovers, the others, Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and the corporation's new acting president, Roger Lewis.

Woman Held As Witness Or Defendant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The arrest of a 19-year-old woman, who the government says has "personal knowledge" of the March 1 bombing of the U.S. Capitol, is the first visible break in a 60-day-old FBI manhunt for those responsible.

Arrested and held under $100,000 bond to ensure her appearance before a Seattle, Wash., grand jury investigating the bombing was Leslie Bacon, daughter of an Atherton, Calif., lumberman and a member of an antivagr group sponsoring demonstrations here.

An FBI agent who testified at Miss Bacon's bond hearing in U.S. District Court Wednesday said the girl is suspected of being a participant in the bomb incident.

However, she was being held as a material witness rather than a defendant. A three-judge appeals court panel scheduled arguments today on a petition by her lawyers for her release.

Special Agent Daniel C. Mahan said the FBI was told by a government informant identified at the bond hearing only as "SI" that Miss Bacon "had personal knowledge of the events" involving the Capitol blast. He said the informant learned this "from conversations with Miss Bacon."

First word of Miss Bacon's arrest came Wednesday afternoon when her lawyers asked the district court to reduce her bond, a request denied by Judge John J. Sirica.

She was apprehended at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday night by FBI agents.

In Atherton, a plush San Francisco suburb, Miss Bacon's mother said the arrest of her daughter was "all a big mistake."

Mahan testified at the bond hearing that informant SI told the government she would flee rather than answer the subpoena to testify before the grand jury.

Miss Bacon's lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, maintained the government failed to show that Miss Bacon would not voluntarily answer the subpoena. He asked Judge Sirica to quash the warrant for her arrest, but his motion was denied.

In cross-examination, Hirschkop asked FBI agent Mahan: "Is she suspected of being a participant in the bombing of the Capitol?"

"Yes," Mahan replied. "Then she's wanted as a potential defendant?" the lawyer continued.

"I don't know that," the agent answered.

The warrant was based on an affidavit signed April 22 by U.S. Atty. Stan Pitkin of Seattle contending that Miss Bacon has "personal knowledge of the circumstances and the persons responsible" for alleged crimes the grand jury is investigating.

Trial Is Scheduled In Postal Holdup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Trial of three Moundsville, W. Va., men charged with the armed robbery of a post office general store in Belmont County Nov. 15 is scheduled in U.S. District Court next Monday.

Donald E. Thomas, 25, Roy James Crow, 20, and Thomas L. Blake, 21, are accused of taking $1,400 from the postmistress at Alleghonia.

Death Count From War Listed For Each County

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—

Seven Ohio counties had more than 100 persons die in the Vietnam War up to last Dec. 31, and seven counties lost fewer than six men, according to a report compiled by LT. Col. William B. Haines, chief of the Soldiers Claims - Veterans Affairs Division.

The death count is limited in some respects, as not all possible deaths from Vietnam war wounds are included.

The seven counties with more than 100 dead include: Cuyahoga, 382; Franklin, 237; Hamilton (Cincinnati), 226; Montgomery (Dayton), 143; Summit (Akron), 134; Lucas (Toledo), 120, and Stark (Canton), 104.

The report showed that Nov. County (Caldwell) has lost two men, the fewest. Morgan County (McConnellsville), has lost three; Harrison (Cadiz) and Holmes (Millersburg) counties, four each, and Brown (Georgetown), Carroll (Carrollton) and Delaware (Delaware) counties, five each.

The 88-county list issued by Haines covers deaths during the decade from Jan. 1, 1961 to Dec. 31, 1970. The figures are from the U.S. Department of Defense and refer to men who were residents of Ohio when they entered the service and who died in Vietnam.

The report does not include deaths which may have occurred in hospitals after men left Vietnam. Nor does the report count deaths in the past four months.

The report shows 2,810 dead Ohioans, listed by name, city and county, branch of service, service number, rank, birth date and whether death was due to

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than a year after the My Lai massacre a handful of soldiers from Lt. William Calley's old outfit systematically gunned down about 30 unresisting Vietnamese women and children in another village, says former S. Sgt. Danny S. Noley.

"As we moved into the village nothing was said, nobody said anything but all of a sudden they were shooting, they were shooting women and kids," Noley, near sobs at times, told an unofficial panel of antiwar congressmen. "They did it so systematically."

In his voluntary, sworn testimony, the 23-year-old former soldier from St. Paul, Minn., Wednesday said he watched the shootings after one of the most popular men in his unit was killed by a land mine nearby.

Notely, whose discharge papers say he served in Calley's outfit, the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, placed the incident at the village of Trung Khanh II, Quang Ngai Province, about April 18, 1969. That was a little more than a year after the My Lai murders for which Calley faces life imprisonment.

Notely's emotionally charged tale prompted Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., chairman of the unofficial warcrimes panel, to exclaim, "What the hell is the country doing to young people, to train them to go out and kill innocent people?"

For three days the panel, which has no official standing, has listened to a score of former U.S. servicemen tell of Americans indiscriminately killing and torturing South Vietnamese.

In Saigon, a check of American war communiques showed that on April 17, 1969, the 11th Brigade "killed 21 enemy soldiers in several contacts about six miles west of Duc Pho" in Quang Ngai Province.

"The action began in the morning when a U.S. Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down in the area, killing one soldier and wounding two others. The aircraft was destroyed. The enemy was killed in three other contacts in the area in the early afternoon. U.S. casualties, including those in the helicopter, were four killed and four wounded," the communique said.

License Tag Fee Boost Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills that would increase the cost of motor vehicle license plates and change requirements for liability insurance were offered in the Ohio Senate Wednesday.

Vehicle license fees would go up $10 under the tag proposal. It would send $5 of the total back to the counties and distribute the other $5 of the increase among local governments.

A $5 surtax allowed local governments would be repealed. This controversial levy is now collected in about 30 counties and municipalities. Several local governments that have imposed the surtax have had it repealed by referendum.

Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent, said the purpose of the bill is to raise more money for county and township roads. He is a sponsor of the bill along with Sens. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, and Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

The other vehicle measure would require drivers to carry automobile liability insurance providing $10,000 in bodily damage claims per person and $5,000 in property damage insurance.

The Senate also received a bill to require a five per cent severance tax on natural resources. Proceeds of the tax would be earmarked for state environment management needs.

Break In Capitol Bombing Case Comes With Arrest

Critics Still Try To Derail Amtrak

Atrocity Hearing Continues; Solons Shocked At Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than a year after the My Lai massacre a handful of soldiers from Lt. William Calley's old outfit systematically gunned down about 30 unresisting Viet name women and children in another village, says former S. Sgt. Danny S. Nofley.

"As we moved into the village nothing was said, nobody said anything but all of a sudden they were shooting, they were shooting women and kids," Nofley, near sobs at times, told an unofficial panel of antiwar congressmen. "They did it so systematically."

In his voluntary, unsworn testimony, the 23-year-old former soldier from St. Paul, Minn., Wednesday said he watched the shootings after one of the most popular men in his unit was killed by a land mine nearby.

Notley, whose discharge papers say he served in Calley's outfit, the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, placed the incident at the village of Trung Khanh II, Quang Ngai Province, about April 18, 1969. That was a little more than a year after the My Lai murders for which Calley faces life imprisonment.

Notley's emotionally charged tale prompted Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., chairman of the unofficial warcrimes panel, to exclaim, "What the hell is the country doing to young people, to train them to go out and kill innocent people?"

For three days the panel, which has no official standing, has listened to a score of former U.S. servicemen tell of Americans indiscriminately killing and torturing South Vietnamese.

In Saigon, a check of American war communiques showed that on April 17, 1969, the 11th Brigade "killed 21 enemy soldiers in several contacts about six miles west of Duc Pho" in Quang Ngai Province.

"The action began in the morning when a U.S. Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down in the area, killing one soldier and wounding two others. The aircraft was destroyed. The enemy was killed in three other contacts in the area in the early afternoon. U.S. casualties, including those in the helicopter, were four killed and four wounded," the communique said.

George Wallace Probe Continues

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Justice Department sent its top prosecutor on political cases into Alabama as a federal grand jury resumed its probe today of possible tax violations in the handling of campaign funds for Gov. George C. Wallace.

The prosecutor, William S. Sessions, heads the special section of the Justice Department's Criminal Division that handles campaign finance and other political wrongdoings. He huddled until dusk Wednesday with Internal Revenue Service investigators here.

The appointment must be confirmed by the Senate. The judgeship was created by Congress a year ago.

Labor Forces Tax Question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Organized labor, Gov. John J. Gilligan's staunchest ally during the fall elections, has forced the 109th General Assembly to consider an alternative to the governor's income tax proposal.

Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King Wednesday presented to House Clerk Thomas White petitions bearing 100,607 signatures, nearly 5,000 more than were needed to force introduction of a bill into the legislature.

The bill, a product of the joint efforts of the AFL-CIO and the United Auto Workers unions, differs from the Gilligan plan in that it omits a personal income tax.

Gilligan's tax package calls for both personal and corporate income taxes that are expected to yield $1.3 billion in new revenue every two years.

Informed sources said Gilligan's personal income tax proposal ran into equally-determined opposition Wednesday afternoon when 29 of 45 House Democrats refused to endorse that portion of the governor's tax plan.

The labor measure does call for a seven per cent tax on corporate profits, elimination of the direct use exemption on machinery and materials used directly in the manufacturing process, and creation of a severance tax.

King said there were two major provisions in the bill that would not be revenue-producers for the state, but were important nonetheless. They are:

—A personal property tax on motor vehicles to make up lost county revenues resulting from a $100 million property tax exemption for homeowners.

—Authority granted to cities allowing them to adopt a graduated income tax similar to the federal income tax system.

The Republican dominated piece of legislation, with committee assignment probably the first order of business.

If the legislature refuses to act, organized labor can collect 95,926 signatures and force the issue onto the November ballot as a constitutional amendment.

Rubin Is Nominated For U.S. Judgeship

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Carl B. Rubin, 50, a Cincinnati attorney, was nominated by President Nixon Wednesday to a new federal judgeship for the Southern Ohio District.

The appointment must be confirmed by the Senate. The judgeship was created by Congress a year ago.

Navy Jets, Red Missiles Tangle Over North

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy planes tangled with enemy missiles over North Vietnam for the second time in six days and attacked anti-aircraft batteries 85 and 115 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone, the U.S. Command announced today.

The planes were on a mission Wednesday to photograph North Vietnam's air defenses and supply routes to the south. The command said the North Vietnamese fired four SAM2 missiles and a number of 37mm anti-aircraft shells at the Navy RF1 photo reconnaissance plane and its two fighter-bomber escorts. The fighter-bombers retaliated with one air-to-ground missile and eight bombs. Results of the American attack were not known, the U.S. Command said.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency claimed that a U.S. jet was shot down Wednesday in Ha Tinh Province, but the U.S. Command said the three Navy planes returned safely to the carrier Hancock, in the Gulf of Tonkin.

One informant indicated that U.S. reconnaissance missions have been increased since the end of the South Vietnamese drive in Laos last month. The U.S. Command said there have been 31 "protective reaction" strikes against threatening positions inside North Vietnam so far this year, more than four times the number reported in all of last year.

The U.S. Command also announced that 45 U.S. servicemen were killed in action last week, pushing the total American battlefield deaths in the war past the 45,000 mark to 45,019. The command reported 518 Americans wounded and 27 dead of nonhostile causes, raising the totals in those categories to 298,289 and 9,486.

The U.S. Command also reported that a Marine OV10 armed reconnaissance plane was shot down in South Vietnam nine miles northwest of Da Nang Wednesday and the two crewmen were killed.

South Korean forces claimed killing 81 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in an offensive by 25,000 Korean infantrymen and marines along a 200-mile stretch of South Vietnam's central coast. Five Koreans were reported wounded.

South Vietnamese forces in eastern Cambodia said they killed 41 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in two clashes Wednesday. One South Vietnamese was reported killed and six wounded.

Also in Cambodia, sporadic enemy shelling was reported around the outer defense perimeter of Phnom Penh and against government positions along Highway 4 southwest of the capital.

Government troops reported killing 57 North Vietnamese Wednesday in heavy fighting near the highway about 35 miles southwest of Phnom Penh where government units have been under attack all week. No further fighting was reported today.

Pickaway Red Cross Chapter Chairman Is RCA Official

C. Phillip Pfeleger, manager, glass operations of Circleville RCA plant, was elected chairman of Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross Wednesday night at the annual Board of Directors meeting.

Pfeleger has served on the Red Cross Board for the past year as a city representative.

He replaces Howard Judd, 580 Mapleview Lane, as chairman.

John Harbaugh of Orient, was reelected board vice chairman; Mrs. William Winter, Route 1, Ashville, secretary; Mrs. Henry Mankey, 203 W. Mound St., assistant secretary; E. E. Reynolds, Ashville, was reelected to serve a fourth term as chapter treasurer.

The annual board meeting was held following ceremonies recognizing Red Cross volunteers and volunteers for service the past 18 months. Adults and teens combined services totaled 17,154 hours of volunteer duty in the community.

Waneta Will, volunteer chairman and Judy Davie, volunteer adviser presented pins and certificates to 44 new volunteers. Mrs. Will and volunteer adviser Georgia Reid, Shirley Thompson and Mrs. Davie presented year awards and certificates to 38 adults and teens.

years or more. They were Pauline Huston, 17 years; Virginia Deffenbaugh, 15 years; Patty Kirkwood, 13 years; Margaret Dean and Georgia Walker, 10 years.

Wanda Williams, Logan Elm senior, received a five year certificate and special recognition for having remained in Red Cross service with the local chapter longer than any teen.

Wanda has recently completed entrance exams for admission to LPN school.

Following presentation of awards, Mrs. Roloff Wolford, chapter executive secretary, gave her personal thanks to all volunteers and volunteers who served the community.

Mrs. Wolford also paid tribute to the late Mrs. Frances Evans and Talmer Wise, saying, they and the services they voluntarily gave to the community and its people, will be sorely missed.

Guest speaker Wednesday was Mrs. Helen Taylor of Columbus, Red Cross disaster worker. Mrs. Taylor recently returned from Mississippi, scene of a tornado. She explained the Red Cross commitment to aid in disasters is now restricted to replacing needs, not losses, to provide all medical care and emergency needs. The government has instituted programs of assistance in disaster relief reducing the extent of Red Cross obligations, particularly in long-term recovery.

A Red Cross caseworker's function in disaster relief formerly covered 21 areas of aid. With the U. S. government assistance programs, Red Cross responsibilities have been reduced to six areas.

The Wednesday night audience included family and friends of volunteers and volunteers in attendance for the awards presentations.

French Hold Drugged Red China Official

PARIS (AP) — French police held a drugged Chinese under guard today, waiting to hear his story, after taking him away from officials of the Chinese Embassy who were trying to put him on a plane for Shanghai.

Chinese diplomats, who fought with airport police Wednesday in a vain attempt to get the man back, accused the French of kidnapping him and said they would pursue the matter through diplomatic channels.

The drugged man, Chung Shijung, was under guard in the maximum security ward of a hospital around the corner from Paris police headquarters.

"When he's back to normal, he'll be free to decide if he wants to stay in France, to return home or to go to any other place of his choice," an officer said.

The incident posed a delicate problem for the French government, which had good relations with Peking long before this month's Ping-Pong thaw. The government television network, normally a good gauge of official attitudes, gave the story very low-key treatment in reporting it Wednesday night.

Chung had been a technical counselor attached to the Chinese Embassy in Algiers. It was reported he recently made contact with the French Embassy there, telling officials he would try to defect as he passed through Paris en route back to China.

Chung was semiconscious and assisted by several Mao-suited Chinese when he arrived at Orly Airport Wednesday to take a Pakistani airliner to Shanghai.

Inmates Support Increased Pay For Penologist

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Jimmy Carter's office says a group of inmates at Georgia State Prison have pledged $215 toward a salary increase for Ellis C. MacDougall, the state director of corrections.

Carter's office said Wednesday inmates who want to assure that MacDougall remains in Georgia have formed a Committee for Raising MacDougall's Salary, and wrote to find out where they could send their contributions.

MacDougall, who has received national recognition for his efforts in penal reform, left a similar job paying $30,000 a year in Connecticut to take the $22,600 Georgia post in January.

Carter assured MacDougall that the salary would be raised. But the 1971 General Assembly refused to grant the increase.

The Justice Department had no comment on why the Seattle grand jury was investigating the capitol bombing. Pitkin also refused comment.

Hirschkop told reporters Miss Bacon had lived at the commune, which housed a number of members of the Mayday war protest group, for several weeks. Prior to that, he said, she had cared for the children of an Alexandria, Va. couple.

Her mother said Miss Bacon had been in the Washington area only a few days when the Capitol blast occurred.

The 1:32 a.m. explosion in a lower level of the Senate wing of the Capitol was preceded by 30 minutes by a call warning of the blast and stating: "This is in retaliation for the Nixon move in Laos."

Within the next few days, reports circulated that the Capitol switchboard had received calls seeking information on the blast, shortly after it occurred, from Spokane, Wash., and Chicago. The calls reportedly were placed before word of the explosion could have traveled to such distant points.

The FBI has declined comment on those reports and others on the investigation.

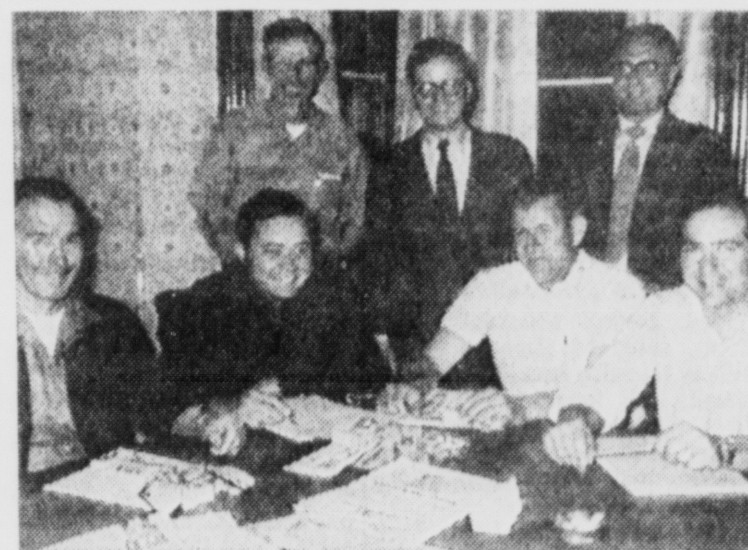

The explosion was centered in an unmarked men's room. It did considerable damage to the Senate barber shop and other adjacent rooms. Cost of repairing the damage has been set at $200,000.

Ruckelshaus had high praise for the initiative shown by the General Assembly in combatting air and water pollution, mentioning specifically the Air and Water Pollution Control Boards, and several pieces of legislation currently pending in House and Senate committees. 2 Million Persons Affected By Food Stamp Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two million of the 10.5 million persons getting food stamps will lose part or all of their allotment under new federal regulations, a government memorandum released today said.

Other estimates say the figure could go higher.

The proposed changes, resulting from the Department of Agriculture's interpretation of revised food stamp legislation Congress passed last year, were announced April 15 and are to take effect within 30 days.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition, called hearings for today in an effort to reassure the department into easing its new regulations.

The department's original announcement gave no estimate of how many persons would be affected by the regulations, but figures are available in a memorandum from a Department of Health, Education and Welfare official made public in advance of today's hearings.

"Agriculture estimates that, out of 10.5 million food stamp recipients, 340,000 will be made ineligible by the new schedule and another 1.7 million will be made worse off," the memo said.

It added "many recipients will receive higher benefits than they get now," but gives no figures.

The memo from James R. Storey of HEW's Family Planning Assistance section was addressed to Robert Patricelli, a HEW deputy undersecretary.

When the Agriculture Department announced the new regulations, it proposed national income eligibility standards be set up for operating food stamp programs uniformly in all states.

In the past, all welfare recipients were eligible for food stamps. Now, income will be a determining factor as well as financial reserves such as bank accounts.

For example, families of laid off workers such as those from the Boeing Corp. in Seattle, Wash., who have no income but money in the bank, would no longer be eligible, the aides said.

Wanda Williams, Logan Elm senior, received a five year certificate and special recognition for having remained in Red Cross service with the local chapter longer than any teen.

Wanda has recently completed entrance exams for admission to LPN school.

Following presentation of awards, Mrs. Roloff Wolford, chapter executive secretary, gave her personal thanks to all volunteers and volunteers who served the community.

Mrs. Wolford also paid tribute to the late Mrs. Frances Evans and Talmer Wise, saying, they and the services they voluntarily gave to the community and its people, will be sorely missed.

Guest speaker Wednesday was Mrs. Helen Taylor of Columbus, Red Cross disaster worker. Mrs. Taylor recently returned from Mississippi, scene of a tornado. She explained the Red Cross commitment to aid in disasters is now restricted to replacing needs, not losses, to provide medical care and emergency needs. The government has instituted programs of assistance in disaster relief reducing the extent of Red Cross obligations, particularly in long-term recovery.

A Red Cross caseworker's function in disaster relief formerly covered 21 areas of aid. With the U. S. government assistance programs, Red Cross responsibilities have been reduced to six areas.

The Wednesday night audience included family and friends of volunteers and volunteers in attendance for the awards presentations.

French Hold Drugged Red China Official

PARIS (AP) — French police held a drugged Chinese under guard today, waiting to hear his story, after taking him away from officials of the Chinese Embassy who were trying to put him on a plane for Shanghai.

Chinese diplomats, who fought with airport police Wednesday in a vain attempt to get the man back, accused the French of kidnapping him and said they would pursue the matter through diplomatic channels.

The drugged man, Chung Si-jung, was under guard in the maximum security ward of a hospital around the corner from Paris police headquarters.

"When he's back to normal, he'll be free to decide if he wants to stay in France, to return home or to go to any other place of his choice," an officer said.

The incident posed a delicate problem for the French government, which had good relations with Peking long before this month's Ping-Pong thaw. The government television network, normally a good gauge of official attitudes, gave the story very low-key treatment in reporting it Wednesday night.

Chung had been a technical counselor attached to the Chinese Embassy in Algiers. It was reported he recently made contact with the French Embassy there, telling officials he would try to defect as he passed through Paris en route back to China.

Chung was semiconscious and assisted by several Mao-suited Chinese when he arrived at Orly Airport Wednesday to take a Pakistani airliner to Shanghai.

Inmates Support Increased Pay For Penologist

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Jimmy Carter's office says a group of inmates at Georgia State Prison have pledged $215 toward a salary increase for Ellis C. MacDougall, the state director of corrections.

Carter's office said Wednesday inmates who want to assure that MacDougall remains in Georgia have formed a Committee for Raising MacDougall's Salary, and wrote to find out where they could send their contributions.

MacDougall, who has received national recognition for his efforts in penal reform, left a similar job paying $30,000 a year in Connecticut to take the $22,600 Georgia post in January.

Carter assured MacDougall that the salary would be raised. But the 1971 General Assembly refused to grant the increase.

The Justice Department had no comment on why the Seattle grand jury was investigating the Capitol bombing. Pitkin also refused comment.

Hirschkop told reporters Miss Bacon had lived at the commune, which housed a number of members of the Mayday war protest group, for several weeks. Prior to that, he said, she had cared for the children of an Alexandria, Va. couple.

Her mother said Miss Bacon had been in the Washington area only a few days when the Capitol blast occurred.

The 1:32 a.m. explosion in a lower level of the Senate wing of the Capitol was preceded by 30 minutes by a call warning of the blast and stating: "This is in retaliation for the Nixon move in Laos."

Within the next few days, reports circulated that the Capitol switchboard had received calls seeking information on the blast, shortly after it occurred, from Spokane, Wash., and Chicago. The calls reportedly were placed before word of the explosion could have traveled to such distant points.

The FBI has declined comment on those reports and others on the investigation.

The explosion was centered in an unmarked men's room. It did considerable damage to the Senate barber shop and other adjacent rooms. Cost of repairing the damage has been set at $200,000.

Deputy Foils TV Break-In

A possible breaking and entering at Teays Valley High School was foiled by the alertness of a Pickaway County Sheriff early this morning.

Deputy John Bost was on routine patrol 4:30 a.m. when he noticed a broken window in the rear of the school.

Upon investigating Bost spotted a suspect hiding near some trash cans. The man fled the scene with Bost in pursuit and escaped in the darkness.

PROJECT FREEDOM — The committee for Project Freedom met recently in the office of the Red Cross. Project Freedom is obtaining signatures of those interested in getting information from North Vietnam about prisoners of war, and soldiers missing in action. Permission is being sought to allow the Red Cross to care for the wounded and ill. A county-wide campaign will be held May 8-16 to sign petitions. Chairman of the committee is Fred Davis, representing Sertoma Club. Other members are seated from the left: Charles M. Reid, Kiwanis; Dick Theis, Knights of Columbus; Leslie Merrill, VFW; Dave Seelock, Sertoma. Standing, Mac Schumm, American Legion; Lew Cook Jr., Sertoma; and Davis.

Norton L. Barnes, 31, of Circleville, has been appointed as coordinator of public relations for Division Six of the Ohio Department of Highways.

The announcement was made today by Bernard B. Hurst Jr., division deputy director.

Barnes, a graduate of the Ohio State University, brings to the assignment diverse experience in government, education, commerce and industry. Among his duties will be writing news media releases, editing the division newsletter and scheduling the services of the speaker's bureau and public information center.

He will also serve as an editorial correspondent to "Transaction," the new quarterly publication of the Department of Highways.

The appointment of Barnes was with the endorsement of the Pickaway County Democratic Executive Committee, William Stout, Chairman.

Environmental Affairs Committee, met at a lunch last week with William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Federal Government's Environmental Protection Agency. Ruckelshaus had high praise for the initiative shown by the General Assembly in combating air and water pollution, mentioning specifically the Air and Water Pollution Control Boards, and several pieces of legislation currently pending in House and Senate committees. "The meeting was particularly helpful," Armstrong said, "because we got a clearer picture of the Federal Government's plans for fighting pollution of our nation's air and water, and the relative position of the states in those plans."

2 Million Persons Affected By Food Stamp Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two million of the 10.5 million persons getting food stamps will lose part or all of their allotment under new federal regulations, a government memorandum released today said.

Other estimates say the figure could go higher.

The proposed changes, resulting from the Department of Agriculture's interpretation of revised food stamp legislation Congress passed last year, were announced April 15 and are to take effect within 30 days.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition, called hearings for today in an effort to reassure the department into easing its new regulations.

The department's original announcement gave no estimate of how many persons would be affected by the regulations, but figures are available in a memorandum from a Department of Health, Education and Welfare official made public in advance of today's hearings.

"Agriculture estimates that, out of 10.5 million food stamp recipients, 340,000 will be made ineligible by the new schedule and another 1.7 million will be made worse off," the memo said.

It added "many recipients will receive higher benefits than they get now," but gives no figures.

The memo from James R. Storey of HEW's Family Planning Assistance section was addressed to Robert Patricelli, a HEW deputy undersecretary.

When the Agriculture Department announced the new regulations, it proposed national income eligibility standards be set up for operating food stamp programs uniformly in all states.

In the past, all welfare recipients were eligible for food stamps. Now, income will be a determining factor as well as financial reserves such as bank accounts.

For example, families of laid off workers such as those from the Boeing Corp. in Seattle, Wash., who have no income but money in the bank, would no longer be eligible, the aides said.

Dear Abby: Hubby's Family Takes Over

DEAR ABBY: My husband comes from a very large family and they are very clannish. The only social life anyone in that family knows is to get together with their relatives. They don't need any outsiders. I am not criticizing them, but I am not all that thrilled with a gathering of the clan every weekend for 16 years.

The Women's Liberation thing got me to thinking. Why should we restrict our entire social life to my husband's family? I have met several interesting, attractive women my age who have invited me and my husband over, but we've never gone because my husband chills the deal.

I have had it! I think more women could "liberate" themselves if they just told their husbands that they were through being pushed around.

That's what I intend to do. Starting Monday!

LIBERATED
DEAR LIBERATED: Good! And let me hear from you on Tuesday.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a wonderful Italian girl for the last two years. She not only has looks and personality, she is smart, thoughtful and kind. It's funny, I have no trouble writing this to you, but I can't tell her how I feel about her. That's my hang-up Abby.

She is always after me to tell her I love her, give her a compliment, or show some affection. I am just not the type. I can't help it. I am no kid. I am 27 and she is 25.

She claims she loves me, but isn't love accepting a person the way he is? We were thinking of marriage, but she says if I am like this before marriage, what would I be like afterwards? She says she needs to know that she is loved and appreciated. She is loved and appreciated. Can I help it if I am not the lovey dovey type?

Am I wrong in just being myself? Or should I try to give out with the "I love you's" and compliments like most guys do?

My friends say if I call it quits with her I'd be giving up a good thing. She doesn't smoke or drink and she's saving herself until marriage.

NOT DEMONSTRATIVE
DEAR NOT: Her needs are more normal than your hang-up. I suggest that you try to be more affectionate, and make a real effort to demonstrate your appreciation of her. A woman can live without hearing that she's loved and appreciated, but she'll soon grow to resent you. Right now you're a poor match. Get with it, young man!

DEAR ABBY: Am I wrong to be annoyed when a casual acquaintance asks me where I

Speed Next Target

Speed may be the next factor to be explored — and controlled — by various forces involved in auto safety. At least two federal agencies are advocating speed controls for all cars manufactured in the near future.

Last December, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration proposed limiting the maximum attainable speed to 95 mph. It also suggested a device which would activate a car's horn and warning lights at 85 mph.

The National Transportation Safety Board within the last several days has produced a series of recommendations concerning speed which are more stringent. The most important proposal is that the top speed of autos be limited to the maximum posted speed limit in the nation.

Although it was not specified what that maximum would be, it could be as low as 75 mph. Police cars would be exempt under any of the various proposals.

Any set of highway accident statistics will include a high percentage in which excessive speed was a contributing cause. Not all, of course, involved speeds approaching 100 mph; a 50-mph speed in a 35-mph zone can be just as dangerous.

But it cannot be denied that a vehicle involved in an accident at a high rate of speed causes considerably more damage to people and property than a vehicle in almost any other circumstance.

Foundations Fill Gap

Hardly a week passes that doesn't provide an announcement that some foundation is giving millions of dollars to worthy projects. The foundation as a major factor in American financial, educational, scientific and cultural life is a fairly recent development.

Only in the last two decades have foundations begun spreading money around to so many causes. Fifty years ago the great titans of industry and business had their private philanthropies. These were on a hit-and-miss basis but they did provide the means for existence of many small colleges, institutions and charitable organizations.

Then, as income taxes took over, the great moguls of industry found themselves able to make and keep less and less of their money. One solution was to turn over the millions to tax-free setups. This is what happened to the great Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller fortunes.

Many institutions no longer can depend on private endowments to support their activities on the expanded scale dictated by modern life. The foundations are helping to fill the gap.

Warming Up

Politics does not always resemble the art of statesmanship. Thus, it is not surprising that as the next national elections attract more and more attention, recrimination between potential opponents becomes more severe.

One of the latest subjects to attract political attention is the appropriations authorized by Congress which the President has refused to spend. By one account they total $13 billion.

It is an interesting discussion, filled with grumblings about unconstitutional conduct, pork-barreling and possible retaliation against administration programs. And this is just the warm-up for the main event.

Abortion

By JEFFERY HART

Dr. Alan Guttmacher, president of the Planned Parenthood-World Population has visited Dartmouth to stump for abortion on demand, a campaign he has been pressing throughout the nation and the world. He had nothing much new to say on the subject but his evangelical commitment to the cause was striking and in keeping with the current fashion he added a few ecological touches to a standard all-out pitch. He was generally well received, the students understanding well enough that abortion, sterilization, and the like are enlightened and liberal.

I had not heard Dr. Guttmacher before and what struck me about his presentation was the way he used language. "We must" he said for example "allow for safe, humane and free abortions and become more liberal about sterilization."

Now wherever you finally stand on the abortion issue I hope you find that there is a touch of the grotesque in this sentence. Abortions can certainly be "free" and conceivably they can be completely "safe" at least for the mother but there is something distastefully inappropriate about attaching the adjective "humane" to the noun "abortion." For anyone with a sense of language, static instantly results. For anyone who has seen photographs of an aborted fetus, the combination is preposterous. Yet there was old Guttmacher, gray-haired beaming, and immensely pleased with himself. Similarly the word "liberal" goes well enough with the noun "art" or with the noun "values" but there is something irretrievably lunkish about attaching it to "sterilization."

Asked whether he would recommend the career of abortionist to Dartmouth premeds, Dr. Guttmacher waggishly demurred: "I think it would be a dull life — like taking out tonsils." This comparison of an abortion to a tonsillectomy must be some sort of ultimate in vulgarity.

Not unexpectedly Dr. Guttmacher was infinitely con-

descending to any potential opposition viewing it as necessarily far beneath his own taste and intelligence.

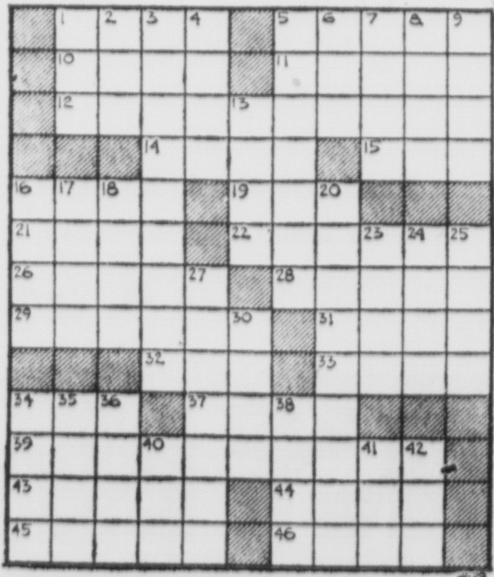

"The people I fear most in these talks", he confided, "are the over-stuffed middle-aged women in the audience who berate me. I'm much more at ease with a young intelligent woman. The middle-aged ones are probably members of the Catholic Women's League." Ah, the bliss of total superiority and unruffled assurance.

As a matter of fact and entirely apart from any doctrinal positions, abortion is bound to be troubling to people possessing any refinement of feeling whatsoever. Is abortion the taking of human life? The question is unsettling. Simply upon inspection a fetus is not a fish or an owl; it is clearly a "human" at one stage of development. Killing it most certainly is not analogous to a tonsillectomy, for a tonsil never develops into anything else. On the other hand the application of the word "human" to the fetus is also troubling, for, simply inspecting the phenomenon, the fetus does not resemble the mature entities to which we ordinarily apply the word "human."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of my friends has been told that her husband has a "conversation hysteria."

Now, all of her friends are curious to know what this means and how serious it is. Mrs. J.L., Indf.

Dear Mrs. L.: "Conversion hysteria" is a severe psychological problem. It becomes doubly unfortunate because the person who has it and then recovers may be stigmatized by well-meaning, curious friends. Interest can be helpful; curiosity a burden.

Conversion hysteria means that a state of anxiety exists, producing physical symptoms that affect various parts of the body.

Consequently, the organs of the body become the outlet by which this anxiety is expressed.

In one such case, a tense, emotionally disturbed child suddenly developed paralysis of the right arm. No physical evidence of any disease could be found. Astute physicians eventually determined that the paralysis was psychological.

The child had been under undue pressure by his parents and teacher to shift from left-hand to right-hand writing. Unable to accomplish this change quickly, he became overly tense. Unconsciously, the only way he could handle this pressure was through conversion hysteria, the paralysis of his right arm.

I must repeat, this was not consciously done; it was something over which he had no control.

Uncovering the reason for a conversion hysteria can be a problem in an adult.

Undoubtedly, your friend's husband is being treated by his own physician and a psychiatrist.

Would you please comment on this leaflet I received in the mail. The said part is that some people may actually believe it.

Dear Mrs. A.: The leaflet enclosed in your letter is shocking. It condemns vaccination and urges parents to refuse to have their children benefit from this great contribution to good health.

It goes on to state: "Avoid dangerous drugs; chiropractic builds natural immunity."

How such ignorance can exist in the light of modern scientific knowledge is beyond belief! Yet it does, and the American public continues to be bombarded by such crackpot ideas.

Modern vaccination is responsible for countless thousands of lives that would otherwise have been lost.

I am certain that this leaflet could not possibly have been authorized by reputable chiropractic organizations. It would be interesting to have their comments.

Dental surgeons should be informed of your important medical problems.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Three financial terms have been appearing regularly in your newspaper, all having an effect on your fortunes. But the odds are they shed no more light than a burned-out-bulb.

The terms are: the prime rate, the balance of payments and Eurodollars. So phonetically dull, so abstract are they, that it is easy to understand why they fail to generate any sparks.

They do have significance, however.

Here's some clarification: THE PRIME RATE — In theory, this is the lowest obtainable lending rate at any time, offered to holders of the best credit ratings, which usually means the soundest corporations rather than individuals. If this is so, you may expect, generally speaking, that loans of lesser quality will carry higher interest rates. And you might expect that when the prime rate moves, your rate will move sooner or later.

It isn't that the prime rate really has much of a direct kinship with consumer loans. But as an indicator of economic conditions, it forecasts what lies ahead.

The prime rate now is tending to rise again after falling sharply since late last year. Currently 5.25 to 5.50 per cent is being asked. Some banks recently raised their rate by 0.25 per cent, indicating that demand was catching up with supply.

But these rates are for new loans. Old loans generally aren't affected.

Sharp and prolonged increases in the prime rate would, however, signal an increase also in the rates for new home mortgage loans.

EURODOLLARS — These are American dollars circulating abroad, not just in Europe but in a score of other countries also. Briefly, they are dollar deposits made in foreign banks rather than United States banks.

These dollars might seldom or never come home. Instead, they are lent out abroad by foreign banks and are accepted for various commercial transactions.

BALANCE OF PAYMENTS — This is to some extent a misnomer, because seldom are payments in balance. The United States hasn't had equilibrium in this regard for nearly two decades. Better call it the payments situation.

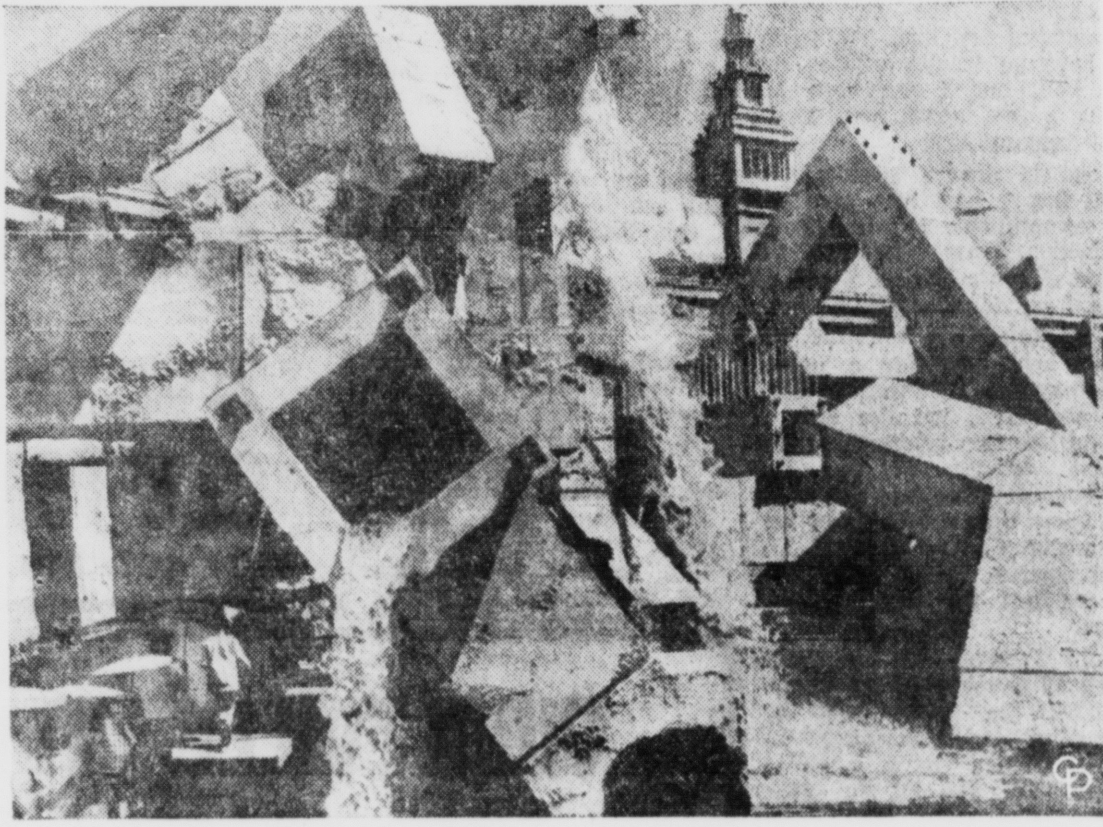

The payments situation is the relation between what is spent abroad by a nation in both public and private transactions and what foreign nations spend in that nation.

The United States has a deficit because the inflow from exports of goods and services and investments is not sufficient to cover the amount spent on imports, travel, military, foreign aid and investments.

Many foreign nations are howling that the United States should settle up, that the only way we've been able to spend more than we take in is because we're issuing money that really isn't worth what we claim for it.

They remind us from time to time that those dollars we issue might be sent right back for redemption in gold, and there just isn't enough gold to redeem them all. In that way they could prove their point.

The risk, however, is that they might destroy world trade, because those dollars, diluted as they might be, are still the most acceptable of any currency.

2,000 SPOUT OFF AT FOUNTAIN—San Francisco citizens walk through, sit around and take part in the monumental and controversial Embarcadero Plaza fountain, a $600,000 jumble of white concrete weighing 710 tons with water spraying and flowing through at the rate of 30,000 gallons a minute. A crowd of 2,000 passed out literature labeling the fountain a "loathsome monstrosity." The work was designed by Montreal sculptor Armand Vaillancourt.

According To Boyle

By PIRCE LEHMBECK (For Hal Boyle)

SOUTH EGREMONT, Mass. (AP) — Someone ran over Peg-leg the other day and there's a void in our barnyard. The kids don't know it yet. But they will soon, when the meadow beckons and Peg-leg isn't there to soar ahead of them as they race to the tree-line.

Peg-leg, you see, was a duck, a Merganser, we think. And she was most unusual—delightfully mischievous, inspiringly courageous and, it appears, fatally foolish.

She wasn't always called Peg-leg. For a long time it was just plain Duck. The name-change came after we found her one wintry morning leaning against the side of the house, her webbed feet so badly frosted that they fell off within a few days.

That left her with just the stumps of her legs to get around on. It was heart-rending to watch her take the first painful steps on those legs, after she'd nursed her back to good health. But little by little they toughened and she could wobble along with the best of them. She was a little slower in the water, but that didn't seem to bother her.

It affected her flying, too. Instead of taking a running start and soaring off to the house, she'd stand in one place and flap her wings furiously until she rose like a helicopter.

It was Peg-leg's mischievousness that endeared her most. You knew she was contemplating mischief when she'd begin quacking softly, raise the scruff of her neck and waggle her tail feathers.

And if there was cat food or dog food to be had, Peg-leg would pass up her grain. At feeding time we'd have to set up a duck watch to make certain the other animals didn't go hungry.

Peg-leg should have known to stay out of that lane. A winter ago, she disappeared during a snowstorm and we figured she'd simply had enough of Berkshire winter and gone South.

Then came a telephone call and a man asked: "Lady, you lose a duck? We got one over here that's eating us out of chicken noodle soup."

As it turned out, Peg-leg had been hit by the town snow plow and knocked cold. The driver had picked her up and had taken her to the road department garage, where he nursed her back to health.

There was no snowstorm to blame the day Peg-leg was killed.

It was a clear warm day when you could see the mountain tops.

Perhaps that's one of the sadder aspects of the whole thing. There'll be other Peg-legs. But it's possible there'll never be another country lane that a duck can safely cross. That apparently belongs to another era.

The population of Britain at mid-1969 was 55,534,000.

Speed Next Target

Speed may be the next factor to be explored — and controlled — by various forces involved in auto safety. At least two federal agencies are advocating speed controls for all cars manufactured in the near future.

Last December, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration proposed limiting the maximum attainable speed to 95 mph. It also suggested a device which would activate a car's horn and warning lights at 85 mph.

The National Transportation Safety Board within the last several days has produced a series of recommendations concerning speed which are more stringent. The most important proposal is that the top speed of autos be limited to the maximum posted speed limit in the nation.

Although it was not specified what that maximum would be, it could be as low as 75 mph. Police cars would be exempt under any of the various proposals.

Any set of highway accident statistics will include a high percentage in which excessive speed was a contributing cause. Not all, of course, involved speeds approaching 100 mph; a 50-mph speed in a 35-mph zone can be just as dangerous.

But it cannot be denied that a vehicle involved in an accident at a high rate of speed causes considerably more damage to people and property than a vehicle in almost any other circumstance.

Foundations Fill Gap

Hardly a week passes that doesn't provide an announcement that some foundation is giving millions of dollars to worthy projects. The foundation as a major factor in American financial, educational, scientific and cultural life is a fairly recent development.

Only in the last two decades have foundations begun spreading money around to so many causes. Fifty years ago the great titans of industry and business had their private philanthropies. These were on a hit-and-miss basis but they did provide the means for existence of many small colleges, institutions and charitable organizations.

Then, as income taxes took over, the great moguls of industry found themselves able to make and keep less and less of their money. One solution was to turn over the millions to tax-free set-ups. This is what happened to the great Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller fortunes.

Many institutions no longer can depend on private endowments to support their activities on the expanded scale dictated by modern life. The foundations are helping to fill the gap.

Warming Up

Politics does not always resemble the art of statesmanship. Thus, it is not surprising that as the next national elections attract more and more attention, recrimination between potential opponents becomes more severe.

One of the latest subjects to attract political attention is the appropriations authorized by Congress which the President has refused to spend. By one account they total $13 billion.

It is an interesting discussion, filled with grumblings about unconstitutional conduct, pork-barreling and possible retaliation against administration programs. And this is just the warm-up for the main event.

Abortion

By JEFFERY HART

Dr. Alan Guttmacher, president of the Planned Parenthood-World Population has visited Dartmouth to stomp for abortion on demand, a campaign he has been pressing throughout the nation and the world. He had nothing much new to say on the subject but his evangelical commitment to the cause was striking and in keeping with the current fashion he added a few ecological touches to a standard all-out pitch. He was generally well received, the students understanding well enough that abortion, sterilization, and the like are enlightened and liberal.

I had not heard Dr. Guttmacher before and what struck me about his presentation was the way he used language. "We must" he said for example "allow for safe, humane and free abortions and become more liberal about sterilization."

Now wherever you finally stand on the abortion issue I hope you find that there is a touch of the grotesque in this sentence. Abortions can certainly be "free" and conceivably they can be completely "safe" at least for the mother but there is something disastrously inappropriate about attaching the adjective "humane" to the noun "abortion." For anyone with a sense of language, static instantly results. For anyone who has seen photographs of an aborted fetus, the combination is preposterous. Yet there was old Dr. Guttmacher, gray-haired and beaming, and immensely pleased with himself. Similarly the word "liberal" goes well enough with the noun "art" or with the noun "values" but there is something irretrievably lunkish about attaching it to "sterilization."

Asked whether he would recommend the career of abortionist to Dartmouth premeds, Dr. Guttmacher waggishly demurred: "I think it would be a dull life — like taking out a dull life — like taking out tonsils." This comparison of an abortion to a tonsillectomy must be some sort of ultimate in vulgarity.

Not unexpectedly Dr. Guttmacher was infinitely con-

descending to any potential opposition viewing it as necessarily far beneath his own taste and intelligence.

"The people I fear most in these talks," he confided, "are the overstuffed middle-aged women in the audience who berate me. I'm much more at ease with a young intelligent woman. The middle-aged ones are probably members of the Catholic Women's League." Ah, the bliss of total superiority and untroubled assurance.

There was no snowstorm to blame the day Peg-leg was killed.

It was a clear warm day when you could see the mountain tops.

Perhaps that's one of the sadder aspects of the whole thing. There'll be other Peg-legs. But it's possible there'll never be another country lane that a duck can safely cross. That apparently belongs to another era.

Salter Creek Grange presented an interesting program under the direction of the lecturer, Becky Timmons. The program centered around the theme "School Daze". Leora Sayre began school with comical "Regulations of School." Carl Dean started the day with a "History Lesson on Uncle Sam." "Life's Arithmetic" was given by Wilma Fraunfelter.

Then Paul Dunkle taught us our music lesson. We had homework, too, as we answered questions to a contest. Editor's Note: The commune is the main support system of the Alternative Society. But communal living is not without peril, as examined in this dispatch, one in a series from the AP Special Assignment Team.

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Soaring Hawk, ex-pusher and proud superfreak, was getting ready to say goodbye to the Fecund Family and journey with his friend Prancing Bear up to the Yukon to watch spring come in.

When Soaring Hawk (his real name was Arnie) pulled out of the commune on his motorcycle, the parting would be joyous.

And so was the commune. Its people were older—on the far side of 25. They were all on a spiritual trip—kundanini yoga. They were beyond drugs. They had financial resources. Within three years, when their farm and restaurant got established, they would, hopefully, be self-supporting.

Besides, said Arnie, the family was so close that "no matter where I am, I can tune in."

There are plenty of communes to be found—some good or "together," some not-so good and "untethered."

In the Alternative Society, the commune is the distinctive life form, a badge of commitment far more real than long hair, beards or hippie clothes, and far more chancy.

It is the main support system—economically and psychologically, for those who have decided to try to build their own way of life apart from the America that spawned them. The commune is their second family where they seek to grow up anew.

Like much in the Alternative Society, the communal idea is something that has been tried before. American history is studded with utopian and usually ill-fated attempts, such as Brook Farm and New Harmony, to recreate a lost sense of community aloof from the distractions and competition of the outside world.

But, never before have communal experiments been launched on such a scale. This reporter, in extensive travels throughout the country for the past three years, has yet to visit a major city without its share of communes.

Inside these urban communes, the dream is to get to the country—to Vermont, to Marin County outside San Francisco, to Northern California, to Oregon and Washington State or to the lush dairies of Wisconsin.

Life in a commune is often emotionally exhausting. It can also be physically perilous.

Three cases of bubonic plague were reported in one commune-studded New Mexico county over the past two summers. All three victims survived. Hepatitis is a chronic problem, especially when there is a scarcity of water. Sanitary conditions are often primitive.

The hippie infusion into the country, an infusion often financed on inherited funds, reopens old wounds over land rights. In New Mexico, Chicano attacks on hippies who live in remote parts of the country are common.

Urban communes are not as perilous but they can be just as trying.

John McGrane of Ecology-Action in Cambridge is a veteran of two communes. He now lives in an apartment.

"It's difficult enough to live in a one-and-one relationship. Our divorce rates suggest that and it's improbable that more than two people can live together and it's impossible that more than three people can live together unless they are very mature and very tolerant. I tend to be tolerant. But many people are not tolerant and tend to get disturbed at small things."

"In a commune life tends to polarize along the lines of the cleans and the sloppies and it isn't very easy to handle. You have to remember that a lot of

Questions Taxpayers Ask

Q — My employer is withholding less income tax from my paycheck this year. Does this mean that I might owe tax next year?

A — It could. Income tax withholding rates are lower in 1971 mainly because the standard deduction was increased. Withholding is also lower for single persons because tax rates for this group were reduced.

But for some, withholding won't cover this year's liability; and underwithholding could result for those earning over $11,500.

If your present withholding won't cover this year's liability, you can avoid owing money next April by dropping exemptions now or, if you are already claiming no exemptions, by asking your employer to withhold an additional amount.

Q — My income is low and I never pay any tax although I file every year to obtain a refund. Is there anything that I can do to stop my employer from withholding taxes?

A — Yes. You should file a Form W-4E with your employer. This is a "Withholding Exemption Certificate" in which you can certify that you did not have any tax liability last year and will not have any income tax this year. Your employer must then stop withholding taxes.

Q — How long must I keep my records for income tax purposes?

A — You must keep your records as long as their contents may be material in administering your Internal Revenue law. The Internal Revenue Service cannot suggest a specific time, but certainly all records should be kept for at least three years and many records, such as stock and property transactions, even longer.

Q — I am retired with a company pension and an annuity. Can I have tax withheld on these payments?

A — Yes. You may use Form W-4P to request the payer to withhold any whole dollar amount. However, the amount to be withheld must be at least $5 a month and must not reduce the net pension or annuity payment to less than $10 a month.

Q — I have received a gift from the bank because I made a long-term deposit. Must I pay taxes on this gift?

A — Yes. In general, the fair market value of property received for making a deposit or opening an account in a people in the youth culture have really deluded themselves into believing they are really beautiful people when in reality many of them are mirror images of their parents. But there's this myth that anyone with long hair or who shouts "off the pig" is a beautiful person. This is the assumption people make.

"So when real conflicts develop, it is utterly impossible to arbitrate the hostilities. They are transformed into political dialogues. They become very abstract kinds of conflicts that are very seldom brought to personal levels and an explosion of one kind or another becomes inevitable."

The Fecund Family in Seattle expects conflicts and so far—in its year of existence—has been able to handle them.

"You know it is not going to be easy," said Joy, a 27-year-old sculptress from Milwaukee. "But you also know the people around you dig you and know that everyone around wants to help everyone else. When something goes wrong, we pick it up quickly and have it out in the open. You can do it because you know people are with you and are not going to come down on you."

Money is a constant problem in virtually all communes, and money is one reason why communes are popular. If two people can live as cheaply as one, they can live as cheaply as five. Few could handle a rent of $75 a month by themselves. With three or four friends, they can and do.

Usually, this means that someone in the house must hold down a straight job—a task that sometimes is rotated in the interest of fairness. What comes in, whether in the form of cash or food stamps, is pooled.

Claudette, 29, the ex-wife of a business executive, lives communally outside Cambridge, Mass. She would never go back to her former way of life.

"People who have lived collectively usually want to go on living in that way," Claudette said, "though not necessarily with the same group of people."

The problem of the great mobility of people in the Alternative Society means a short life span for most communes.

But like most structures in the Alternative Society, a purpose of the commune is for the long haul. "What we want to find out is what to do with our old freaks," said Paul of Trout Fishing in America, a Cambridge free school.

Implied in building for the long haul are the age-old questions of how to regulate sexual customs and how to raise children.

"I couldn't imagine raising children with just one other person," says a former suburban housewife turned hip in Madison, Wis. "But collectively it can be done in a way that's probably much healthier for the children."

The woman, who has two children under five, says she tells them that they are far more fortunate than their playmates who have only one father. They have dozens—each of whom takes a transitory but real interest in the children.

Dr. Eva Wallen of the Bernalillo County health department in New Mexico was surprised that communal venereal disease rates were no higher than they were—an indication, she said, that stable male-female relations were developing.

Sexual expression differs from commune to commune.

Promiscuity seems most common in communes that attract the drug-oriented young still very much out for kicks. It is less common in the more stable communes, particularly those organized around a specific task or a political or spiritual goal.

Love, and old-fashioned exclusivity, are very much alive in the Alternative Society. But so is the belief that people are not to be possessed but exist as free individuals with free bodies and free minds.

"In the old sex idea," said a 19-year-old in Atlanta political commune, "the taboos made sex an abusive thing rather than a flowing thing. With us, sex is a flowing thing that happens naturally."

Not that hypocrisy doesn't remain.

One reason for the demise of the Seattle Liberation Front was the outrage of revolutionary women at what they considered their sexual exploitation. One of the male leaders was accused of seducing a 16-year-old girl, giving her VD, then leaving her.

The crushing blow to the SLF was the Sky River Rock Festival at which three women were gang raped.

American Legion, Auxiliary Present Awards For Tests

Special guests at the Monday evening meeting of Unit 134 American Legion Auxiliary in the Post Home were the six Pickaway County senior high school student winners of the government test sponsored jointly by the American Legion and its Auxiliary in Ohio.

Ora Davis, Americanism chairman for Hall-Adkins Post 134 introduced post Commander Mac Donald Schumm who presented the Post and District awards. Mary Beth Rhodes, high scorer, is a Circleville High School senior. She also placed in the Legion's 7th District and went on to win top honors in the state. She left March 24 with twelve other top scorers in the state for a thrilling and unforgettable journey to our nation's capital. In addition to the trip, Mary Beth was given a $100 scholarship from a fund originated by former Ohio Governor Frank Lausche. She gave a short talk and summed up her feelings by saying "It was one of the most fabulous experiences any high school student could ever hope to have." She was presented a trophy and a bronze medallion marking the Legion's 50th Anniversary. High scorer in the Post and District, Kenneth Dean, Logan Elm High School senior, received honor certificates, trophy and a bronze medallion. Debbie Irwin and William S. Wilson, juniors at Teays Valley High School, Cathy Jo Jones, sophomore at Logan Elm and Walter Beattie, sophomore at Teays Valley, were also presented awards.

Seventh District Commander Dudley Radcliff, briefly told that 70,000 Americanism tests were given in Ohio and termed it a real test of a student's knowledge to place in the winners' circle. They must write an essay on the back of the test when they have completed the questions.

Roger Smith, Ohio's State Commander of the American Legion presented Mary Beth a department of Ohio award from the American Legion Auxiliary. He stressed the fact the American Legion and its Auxiliary jointly sponsors the trip to Washington D.C. for the top winners and their chaperones and the praise and thanks of the students when they return proves it is a very worthwhile project. They meet people and see sights many never would have the opportunity to do otherwise. Commander Smith presented Unit President, Eleanor Moss, and Post Commander, Mac Donald Schumm, with 50 year desk medallions.

Mrs. Charles Moss, president, presided over the short business session preceding the presentations of awards. Mrs. Robert Stephens, acting chaplain, opened the meeting with prayer. The group joined in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Thank you notes from John Reid of Berger Hospital for the new outside flag, Chapel of the Four Chaplains for the Unit's contribution and the Red Cross for cooperation during the past year were read. Mrs. MacDonald Schumm gave the monthly card party report. Mrs. Bess Simison, rehabilitation and Veterans affairs, reported serving 23 patients at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, sandwiches, chips, punch, colored eggs, candy and ice cream during the April visit. Membership of 165 was reported.

National Hospital Day will be observed at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital May 2 with a full day of activities and the Unit voted to help send the Circleville Junior Band to take part in the celebration.

President Moss appointed Mrs. Walter Pickel, Mrs. Forrest Hoffman and Mrs. MacDonald Schumm to the nomination committee. Mrs. Stephens closed the meeting with a prayer for guidance of our children and youth.

Guests, their parents, Legion and Auxiliary members were invited to the refreshment tables centered with white containers of the Memorial Poppy.

Delta Queen Goes Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Having weathered stormy congressional seas, a refurbished Delta Queen headed home to a red carpet welcome in her home port, Cincinnati, today.

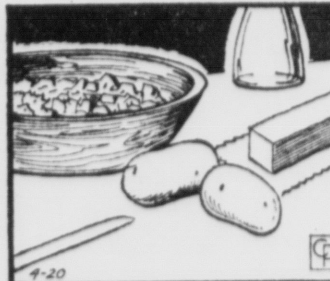

The Greater Cincinnati Area Chamber of Commerce scheduled a full day of celebrations on the Cincinnati Riverfront to mark the occasion.

The plans included chimes in a downtown building, a red carpet rolled down to the river, a Dixieland band, speeches by public officials, University of Cincinnati coeds passing out flowers, a 21-gun salute by a historic rifle club, sidewalk painting by school children, choral groups and thousands of people.

The Queen left Madison, Ind., Wednesday evening on the last leg of the long trip from New Orleans. It is the last overnight passenger carrying boat plying the Ohio, Missouri and Mississippi river.

The annual race on the Ohio River between the Queen and the Belle of Louisville was cancelled Tuesday when the Queen failed to show. Officials blamed low water in the river for the delay.

Ohio Could Lose Highway Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio is one of 26 states which eventually could lose some of their federal highway funds for failing to have adequate anti-billboard laws. Transportation Department sources said Wednesday.

Last February Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe told governors that states failing to pass strict anti-billboard laws by the end of 1971 legislative sessions might lose 10 per cent of their federal highway aid.

The Ohio General Assembly still is in session, but no such legislation has been introduced.

Now is the time to put away winter boots! Before you do, brush loose dirt from the inside, wash the outside, rinse and dry thoroughly. Clip pairs together with a spring clothespin and store. Come fall, each member of the family can start off with a clean pair of boots.

Monday Club Program Titled 'New Pursuits'

Mrs. George Sowers, president, conducted the business meeting when Monday Club held its April meeting at the Pickaway County Historical Society building.

Programs for the club year were distributed. It was announced that Mrs. Collis Young will speak on "The Expanding Arts" at the next meeting on May 10.

Miss Eleanor Craig presented the evening's program, "New Pursuits" in which she described exciting technological advances that will make libraries of today and the future very different from those of the past. She remarked that no one knows what books of the future will be like or where they will be kept.

It is questionable whether printing as we know it today will be around by the year 1999. More than likely it will be a part of the larger and broader graphic communications industry. In one recent library publication there was an ad which read, "One day they'll be able to get all of Shakespeare's plays in the palm of one little hand."

Microfilms are the magic means of bringing the bulging shelves of books, periodicals, newspapers and manuscripts down to reasonable size. The use of microfilm reduces the amount of space needed for storage, reduces cost, preserves rare old works and offers unlimited resources to smaller libraries hard pressed for space. Microfilms have a life expectancy of 300 to 500 years and give a 95 per cent saving in space.

Microficheis, related to microfilm, is a flat card four by six inches on which printed pages are reproduced in transparent film which may contain from 60 to 90 pages of printed material.

Pickaway County District Public Library has a recorder Microfilm printer and reader. Cumbersome volumes of The Circleville Herald for a half year are now contained in convenient small box, three by three by 1 inch. Should anything happen to this copy it can be replaced by the Beil and Howell

Co. where the original microfilm is stored.

Miss Craig explained about the formation of regional library service organizations in Ohio. Through these organizations libraries throughout the state will have access to the new technology and its electronic applications to operate efficiently and to transmit information from one place to another. Through inter-library loans more books will become available, reference service will be greatly enlarged, staff training will be improved, expert professional help will be provided to member libraries, et cetera.

There are many services at the Pickaway County Library of which many people are not aware of as books for the handicapped, available through the Cincinnati Regional Library. Talking books with phonographs for those unable to hold a book. Books in Braille and seven inch reels for tape recorders for blind persons. Large print books for those with limited vision.

There are records of both classical and popular music on loan as well as language records. A new program of loaning paintings has been recently introduced. A series of Friday afternoon programs on selected subjects will be offered and everyone is encouraged to attend.

Miss Craig displayed a variety of new books including the ever-popular paperbacks. She explained briefly about each and suggested that great value in reading is derived from tangents — a suggested reading list geared to new books, or some special topic related to a program from which the reader may take off on his own tangent.

Cicero's words are timely today: Books are... "a spur to the young, a delight to the old; an ornament in prosperity, a consoling refuge in adversity; they are a pleasure for us at home and no burden abroad; they stay up with us at night, they accompany us when we travel, they are with us in our country visits."

St. Philip's Women Hold Annual Tea

Women of St. Philip's Episcopal Church held the annual Come and Taste Tea Wednesday afternoon in the Parish House. The event was attended by approximately 100 women.

Committees making the afternoon an enjoyable one were co-chairmen, Mrs. Myron Leist and Mrs. William Weldon; solicitations, Margaret Mattinson, chairman; Mrs. Robert Call, Mrs. David Craven and Mrs. Harry Stoker.

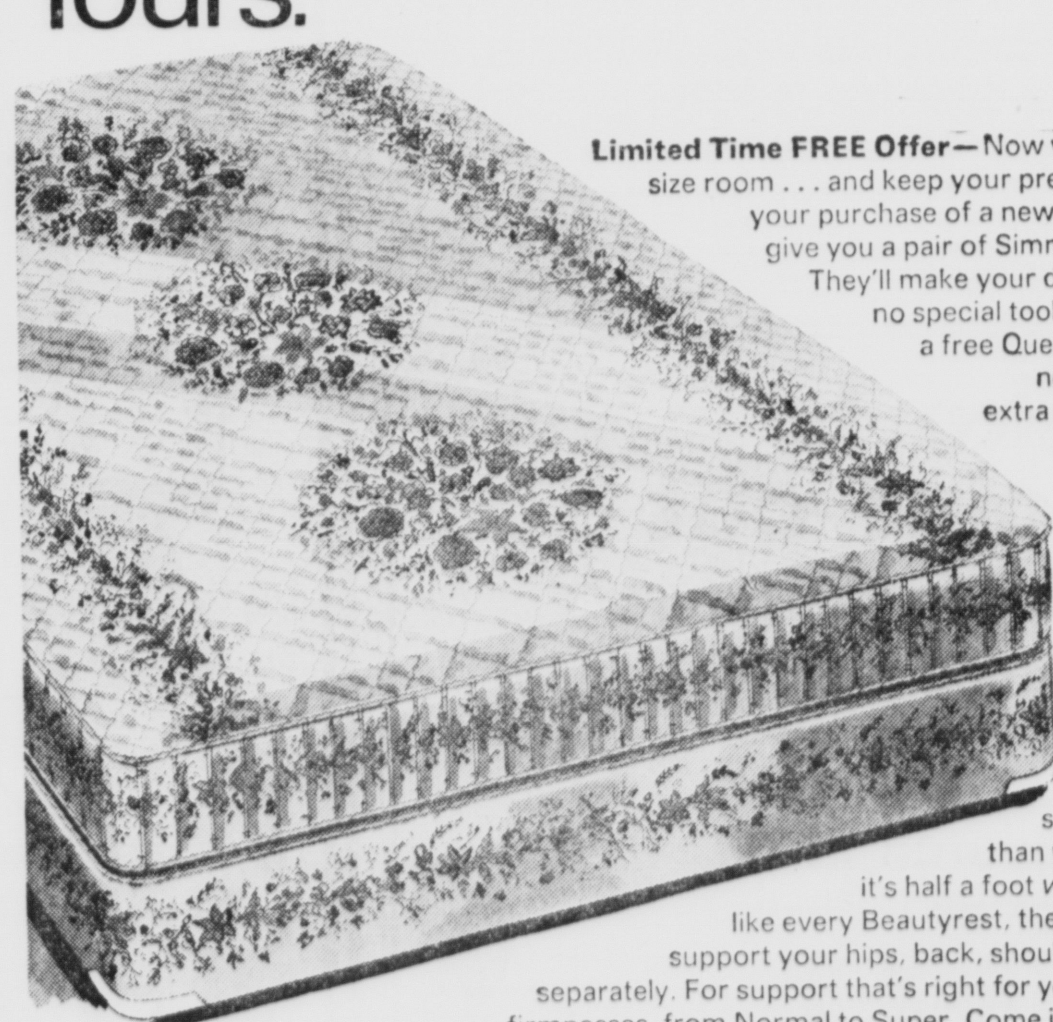

Flowers for the individual tables, Mrs. Myron Haradon; silver, Mrs. H. Newel Stevenson Jr.; card tables, Mrs. Walter Howard; punch table, Mrs. William Robertson, chairman, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Granger and Mrs. Wayne Griffith.

Kitchen, Mrs. Earl Palm, chairman; Mrs. Andrew Thomas, Mrs. Dale Minor, Mrs. Guy Jacobs, Mrs. Jerry Francis; publicity, Miss Linda Blue; tea table, Mrs. David Allardyce, chairman; Mrs. Robert Call, Mrs. John O'Donnell, Mrs. William Radcliff, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mrs. John Hope and Mrs. Robert Kennedy.

DECISIONS DECISIONS — Not being able to sample all the delicacies at the Come and Taste Tea at St. Philip's Parish House Wednesday afternoon it became a task to choose what one found to be new or a great favorite.

American Legion, Auxiliary Present Awards For Tests

Special guests at the Monday evening meeting of Unit 134 American Legion Auxiliary in the Post Home were the six Pickaway County senior high school student winners of the government test sponsored jointly by the American Legion and its Auxiliary in Ohio.

Ora Davis, Americanism chairman for Hall-Adkins Post 134 introduced Post Commander MacDonald Schumm who presented the Post and District awards. Mary Beth Rhodes, high scorer, is a Circleville High School senior. She also placed in the Legion's 7th District and went on to win top honors in the state. She left March 24 with twelve other top scorers in the state for a thrilling and unforgettable journey to our nation's capital. In addition to the trip, Mary Beth was given a $100 scholarship from a fund originated by former Ohio Governor Frank Lausche. She gave a short talk and summed up her feelings by saying "It was one of the most fabulous experiences any high school student could ever hope to have." She was presented a trophy and a bronze medallion marking the Legion's 50th Anniversary. High scorer in the Post and District, Kenneth Dean, Logan Elm High School senior, received honor certificates, trophy and a bronze medallion. Debbie Irwin and William S. Wilson, juniors at Teays Valley High School, Cathy Jo Jones, sophomore at Logan Elm and Walter Beattie, sophomore at Teays Valley, were also presented awards.

Seventh District Commander Dudley Radcliff, briefly told that 70,000 Americanism tests were given in Ohio and termed it a real test of a student's knowledge to place in the winners' circle. They must write an essay on the back of the test when they have completed the questions.

Roger Smith, Ohio's State Commander of the American Legion presented Mary Beth a department of Ohio award from the American Legion Auxiliary. He stressed the fact the American Legion and its Auxiliary jointly sponsors the trip to Washington D.C. for the top winners and their chaperones and the praise and thanks of the students when they return proves it is a very worthwhile project. They meet people and see sights many never would have the opportunity to do otherwise. Commander Smith presented Unit President, Eleanor Moss, and Post Commander, MacDonald Schumm, with 50 year desk medallions.

Mrs. Charles Moss, president, presided over the short business session preceding the presentations of awards. Mrs. Robert Stephens, acting chaplain, opened the meeting with prayer. The group joined in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Thank you notes from John Reid of Berger Hospital for the new outside flag, Chapel of the Four Chaplains for the Unit's contribution and the Red Cross for cooperation during the past year were read. Mrs. MacDonald Schumm gave the monthly card party report. Mrs. Bees Simison, rehabilitation and Veterans affairs, reported serving 23 patients at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, sandwiches, chips, punch, colored eggs, candy and ice cream during the April visit. Membership of 165 was reported.

National Hospital Day will be observed at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital May 2 with a full day of activities and the Unit voted to help send the Circleville Junior Band to take part in the celebration.

President Moss appointed Mrs. Walter Pickel, Mrs. Forrest Hoffman and Mrs. MacDonald Schumm to the nomination committee. Mrs. Stephens closed the meeting with a prayer for guidance of our children and youth.

Guests, their parents, Legion and Auxiliary members were invited to the refreshment tables centered with white containers of the Memorial Poppy.

Delta Queen Goes Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Having weathered stormy congressional seas, a refurbished Delta Queen headed home to a red carpet welcome in her home port, Cincinnati, today.

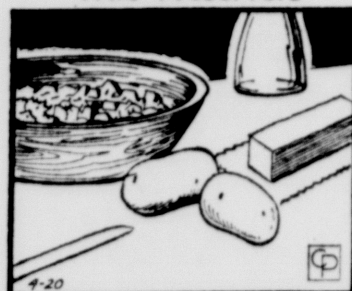

The Greater Cincinnati Area Chamber of Commerce scheduled a full day of celebrations on the Cincinnati Riverfront to mark the occasion.

The plans included chimes in a downtown building, a red carpet rolled down to the river, a Dixieland band, speeches by public officials, University of Cincinnati coeds passing out flowers, a 21-gun salute by a historic rifle club, sidewalk painting by school children, choral groups and thousands of people.

The Queen left Madison, Ind., Wednesday evening on the last leg of the long trip from New Orleans. It is the last overnight passenger carrying boat passing the Ohio, Missouri and Mississippi river.

The annual race on the Ohio River between the Queen and the Belle of Louisville was cancelled Tuesday when the Queen failed to show. Officials blamed low water in the river for the delay.

Ohio Could Lose Highway Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio is one of 26 states which eventually could lose some of their federal highway funds for failing to have adequate anti-billboard laws, Transportation Department sources said Wednesday.

Last February Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe told governors that states failing to pass strict anti-billboard laws by the end of 1971 legislative sessions might lose 10 per cent of their federal highway aid.

The Ohio General Assembly still is in session, but no such legislation has been introduced.

Antique Car Stolen From Ancient Owner

BRYAN, Ohio (AP) — Automobile thievery reached a new high — or perhaps a new low — for 90-year-old Miles Lester.

He was in church when someone stole his car — a 1909 Brush.

Police located the antique car six months later at Claverack, N. Y., unharmed and with a new paint job.

After all the facts were checked and a culprit identified two of Lester's friends drove to New York then returned the car to Bryan aboard a flatbed trailer.

Court Frees Boy; Rights Unprotected

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The 8th District Court of Appeals has overturned the sentencing of a 16-year-old Independence boy accused of setting two fires in the Cleveland suburb, ruling that police and Juvenile Court failed to protect the boy's constitutional rights.

The appellate judges Wednesday returned the case to Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court for possible retrial, but their decision rules out much of the evidence used against the boy in the original trial.

The appellate court held that no reference should have been made in Juvenile Court to evidence obtained by detectives who questioned the boy in his home because the boy's parents were not present during the questioning.

It also ruled that police had failed to tell the boy or his parents of his right to have a lawyer present and his right to protection against self-incrimination.

A handwriting sample police obtained from the boy also should not have been used at his trial, the appeals judges ruled.

The boy was arrested last May, when he was 15, and accused of setting fires at three homes in Independence between Dec. 25, 1969, and last May 10.

At one home the arsonist also scrawled an obscene inscription on a mirror with nail polish, police said.

At a trial last July, Juvenile Court Judge Walter G. Whitlatch dismissed charges involving one fire, but held that the boy had set the other two, adjudged him a delinquent and committed him to the Ohio Youth Commission at Columbus.

The appellate court's ruling is based on a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court that despite the fact that Juvenile Court hearings are theoretically civil proceedings, juveniles enjoy the same constitutional protections as adults in criminal trials.

The membership campaign now underway was discussed and dues are payable to Mrs. Gillespie, New Holland, Ohio 43145.

Hostesses for the next Republican Club meeting with a carry-in luncheon will be Mrs. Jean Adams, chairman; Mrs. Alma Long, Mrs. Florence Baker, Mrs. T. C. Hatfield, Mrs. Mabel Towers and Mrs. Sarah Pugsley.

Among the decorations were elephants for the tables and a large one on the piano and cookie elephants baked and decorated by Miss Dumm. The cookie cutter was given to her by the late Alice Ada May.

Witnesses Plead For More Ohio Welfare

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Scores of witnesses appeared before a House Finance-Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday evening to plead for increased state welfare subsidies.

Representative of those who testified before the Welfare subcommittee was William Ginn, a Cleveland attorney and spokesman for the Ohio Citizens Council.

Ginn said the fundamental welfare issue facing Ohio is "how we are going to treat the children of this state."

He said there are "some 300,000 children and their families involved now with Aid to Dependent Children programs, and their support is inadequate, below minimum state standards."

"How can a mother and her child live on half as much as a couple covered by Aid to the Aged benefits," he asked the committee.

"This is a time of hope," he said. "We are willing to pay the price for this advance."

The subcommittee has been holding public hearings on that portion of Gov. John J. Gilligan's budget request dealing with welfare issues since Jan. 26.

In his budget, the governor has asked $1.8 billion over the next two years to meet welfare needs. That figure represents a $1 billion increase over current expenditures.

Columbus Rabbi Jerome D. Folkman praised the Gilligan plan for at least raising ADC benefits to minimum state levels.

Folkman said if the plan is approved, each ADC recipient would receive $1.33 per day for food, clothing and other needs, an increase of 48 cents a day over current benefits.

Folkman called a decent welfare program "an investment in the future welfare of this state."

The subcommittee is expected to begin soon on the preparation of final recommendations to present to the full Finance-Appropriations Committee.

In testimony earlier in the day, a spokesman for the Ohio Farm Bureau told the House Ways and Means Committee that Ohio farmers would enthusiastically support a statewide income tax if property tax relief were provided with it.

Property tax relief is urgently needed, said Dean Simeral, because farm tax assessments are often affected by urban land values.

He asked the committee to consider amending the governor's income tax package to insure that property taxes against farmers did not exceed "a fair percentage of net income."

At present, he said, 14 per cent is about average, but some farmers are required to pay as much as 50 per cent of their net income to meet property tax bills.

Simeral proposed that relief take the form of a tax credit rather than rollbacks, as provided in the governor's budget.

Simeral said, however, that despite specific objections to portions of the bill, the Farm Bureau still endorsed the statewide income tax. He gave four reasons.

—An income tax is the only source of revenue that can produce the money needed for property tax relief.

—An income tax is the best way to provide additional revenue for the state.

—An income tax will produce increased revenue in line with inflation and economic growth.

—An income tax will tax the best measure of ability to pay income.

Gilligan's statewide income-based tax on individuals and corporations would yield Ohio about $1.3 billion new money during the next two years.

May Day Coalition Plans Nonviolent KSU Protest

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The May Day Coalition, composed of 13 moderate and leftwing campus organizations, says it will stage a nonviolent demonstration May 4 at the building now housing the Kent State University ROTC.

Campus Yippie leader Jerry Persky said there would be a memorial service on the Commons to commemorate the slaying of four KSU students and the wounding on nine others last May 4 in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen during an antiwar rally.

Then demonstrators will move to the old Rockwell Library, which now houses the university's ROTC, Persky said. The former ROTC headquarters was destroyed by fire during last year's May 1-4 disturbances at the campus.

The decision to demonstrate was made Wednesday at a rally of some 400 students on the campus Commons.

Persky said that the goal of the demonstration at the ROTC building was to "shut down ROTC at Kent."

Ron Weissenberger, 25, a graduate student who is running for city council in Kent, said outsiders would be welcomed for the weekend memorial, but not if they want to start trouble.

Weissenberger, one of 25 persons — mostly students — indicted by a special state grand jury that investigated the campus unrest last year, said: "If they want to, I think we have enough common sense to control and stifle them. And I hope you do. If somebody starts to crash a window, stop them."

An unidentified woman, a Kent resident, told the students: "We've had a lot of emotionalism and a big tragedy. Scar tissue has healed over this tragedy. It's had a nice scab. I don't see why we have to open the sore again."

She said that if the wound is reopened, "It will never heal." She thanked the group and walked away.

The university community has planned observances to commemorate the tragedy, but has asked that the memorial be for the campus community alone.

The May Day Coalition has invited students from across the country to attend the May 1-4 commemoration.

Ohioan Slain By Policemen; Was Escapee

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Gilbert Tullios, 33, an escapee from the Ohio Penitentiary, was shot to death Wednesday while resisting arrest by Detroit police.

Authorities said the Cleveland man was seen in a parked car and was taken into custody when he could not furnish identification. On the way to the station, Tullios overpowered Patrolman Thomas Lintz and held a gun to his head.

Other officers traced the pair to an alley, according to police, and Tullios was killed in a struggle.

Tullios escaped by jumping out of a church window while attending his mother's funeral in Cleveland Feb. 22. He had been serving a 15-year term for armed robbery.

Antique Car Stolen From Ancient Owner

BRYAN, Ohio (AP) — Automobile thieves reached a new high — or perhaps a new low — for 90-year-old Miles Lester.

He was in church when someone stole his car — a 1909 Brush.

Police located the antique car six months later at Claverack, N. Y., unharmed and with a new paint job.

After all the facts were checked and a culprit identified two of Lester's friends drove to New York then returned the car to Bryan aboard a flatbed trailer.

Court Frees Boy; Rights Unprotected

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The 8th District Court of Appeals has overturned the sentencing of a 16-year-old Independence boy accused of setting two fires in the Cleveland suburb, ruling that police and Juvenile Court failed to protect the boy's constitutional rights.

The appellate judges Wednesday returned the case to Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court for possible retrial, but their decision rules out much of the evidence used against the boy in the original trial.

The appellate court held that no reference should have been made in Juvenile Court to evidence obtained by detectives who questioned the boy in his home because the boy's parents were not present during the questioning.

It also ruled that police had failed to tell the boy or his parents of his right to have a lawyer present and his right to protection against self-incrimination.

A handwriting sample police obtained from the boy also should not have been used at his trial, the appeals judges ruled.

The boy was arrested last May, when he was 15, and accused of setting fires at three homes in Independence between Dec. 25, 1969, and last May 10.

At one home the arsonist also scrawled an obscene inscription on a mirror with nail polish, police said.

At a trial last July, Juvenile Court Judge Walter G. Whitlatch dismissed charges involving one fire, but held that the boy had set the other two, adjudged him a delinquent and committed him to the Ohio Youth Commission at Columbus.

The appellate court's ruling is based on a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court that despite the fact that Juvenile Court hearings are theoretically civil proceedings, juveniles enjoy the same constitutional protections as adults in criminal trials.

Power Outage Hits Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Fires on telephone poles near a carry-in luncheon knocked out the power supply to much of the city's business district for about an hour Wednesday.

The first outage occurred when a fire broke out on a line at a Wood St. substation. Shortly afterwards a pole about a block away caught fire, resulting in large sections of the downtown area being left without power.

Witnesses Plead For More Ohio Welfare

By TAILMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scores of witnesses appeared before a House Finance Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday evening to plead for increased state welfare subsidies.

Representative of those who testified before the Welfare subcommittee was William Ginn, a Cleveland attorney and spokesman for the Ohio Citizens Council.

Ginn said the fundamental welfare issue facing Ohio is "how we are going to treat the children of this state."

He said there are "some 300,000 children and their families involved now with Aid to Dependent Children programs, and their support is inadequate, below minimum state standards."

"How can a mother and her child live on half as much as a couple covered by Aid to the Aged benefits," he asked the committee.

"This is a time of hope," he said. "We are willing to pay the price for this advance."

The subcommittee has been holding public hearings on that portion of Gov. John J. Gilligan's budget request dealing with welfare issues since Jan. 26.

In his budget, the governor has asked $1.8 billion over the next two years to meet welfare needs. That figure represents a $1 billion increase over current expenditures.

Columbus Rabbi Jerome D. Folkman praised the Gilligan plan for at least raising ADC benefits to minimum state levels.

Folkman said if the plan is approved, each ADC recipient would receive $1.33 per day for food, clothing and other needs, an increase of 48 cents a day over current benefits.

Folkman called a decent welfare program "an investment in the future welfare of this state."

The subcommittee is expected to begin soon on the preparation of final recommendations to present to the full Finance Appropriations Committee.

In testimony earlier in the day, a spokesman for the Ohio Farm Bureau told the House Ways and Means Committee that Ohio farmers would enthusiastically support a statewide income tax if property tax relief were provided with it.

Property tax relief is urgently needed, said Dean Simeral, because farm tax assessments are often affected by urban land values.

He asked the committee to consider amending the governor's income tax package to insure that property taxes against farmers did not exceed "a fair percentage of net income."

At present, he said, 14 per cent is about average, but some farmers are required to pay as much as 50 per cent of their net income to meet property tax bills.

Simeral proposed that relief take the form of a tax credit rather than rollbacks, as provided in the governor's budget.

Simeral said, however, that despite specific objections to portions of the bill, the Farm Bureau still endorsed the statewide income tax. He gave four reasons.

—An income tax is the only source of revenue that can produce the money needed for property tax relief.

—An income tax is the best way to provide additional revenue for the state.

—An income tax will produce increased revenue in line with inflation and economic growth.

—An income tax will tax the best measure of ability to pay income.

Gilligan's statewide income-based tax on individuals and corporations would yield Ohio about $1.3 billion new money during the next two years.

May Day Coalition Plans Nonviolent KSU Protest

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The May Day Coalition, composed of 13 moderate and leftwing campus organizations, says it will stage a nonviolent demonstration May 4 at the building now housing the Kent State University ROTC.

Campus Yippie leader Jerry Persky said there would be a memorial service on the Commons to commemorate the slaying of four KSU students and the wounding on nine others last May 4 in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen during an antiwar rally.

Then demonstrators will move to the old Rockwell Library, which now houses the university's ROTC, Persky said. The former ROTC headquarters was destroyed by fire during last year's May 14 disturbances at the campus.

The decision to demonstrate was made Wednesday at a rally of some 400 students on the campus Commons.

Persky said that the goal of the demonstration at the ROTC building was to "shut down ROTC at Kent."

Ron Weissenberger, 25, a graduate student who is running for city council in Kent, said outsiders would be welcomed for the weekend memorial, but not if they want to start trouble.

Weissenberger, one of 25 persons — mostly students — indicted by a special state grand jury that investigated the campus unrest last year, said: "If they want to, I think we have enough common sense to control and stifle them. And I hope you do. If somebody starts to crash a window, stop them."

An unidentified woman, a Kent resident, told the students: "We've had a lot of emotionalism and a big tragedy. Scar tissue has healed over this tragedy. It's had a nice scab. I don't see why we have to open the sore again."

She said that if the wound is reopened, "It will never heal." She thanked the group and walked away.

The university community has planned observances to commemorate the tragedy, but has asked that the memorial be for the campus community alone.

The May Day Coalition has invited students from across the country to attend the May 1-4 commemoration.

Ohioan Slain By Policemen; Was Escapee

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Gilbert Tullios, 33, an escapee from the Ohio Penitentiary, was shot to death Wednesday while resisting arrest by Detroit police.

Authorities said the Cleveland man was seen in a parked car and was taken into custody when he could not furnish identification. On the way to the station, Tullios overpowered Patrolman Thomas Lintz and held a gun to his head.

Other officers traced the pair to an alley, according to police, and Tullios was killed in a struggle.

Tullios escaped by jumping out of a church window while attending his mother's funeral in Cleveland Feb. 22. He had been serving a 15-year term for armed robbery.

Children's writers, no less than those of adults, have their own personal reasons for writing for a particular audience. Here we present views of a few of the established authors of juveniles.

C. W. Anderson, whose "Great Heart," "Man O' War" and other great horse stories are perennial favorites directs his books to children. He feels that the best judge of a children's book is a child. Thus he evaluates his own work by the letters he receives from children. He tells about a little girl who wrote to him, "You are the greatest artist in the world and I love you." Years later, she wrote again, "Your pictures are very nice" and she signed it, "Yours respectfully." You see, she was growing up, and her point of view was changing.

Pat Hutchins, who's "Rolie's Walk" was an A. L. A. Notable book of 1968, feels that today's books for children can be for pure enjoyment. She says it's perfectly acceptable for the hero to have his faults. They must get him into trouble, but they needn't lead him to the punishment so essential in Victorian times.

Negro writer Virginia Hamilton believes that the young of today seek out only the truth, whatever that truth may be. She thinks writers have a glorious responsibility to "tell it like it is." Her "Time Ago Tales of Jahdu" has been well received in libraries all over the country, as a top-notch addition to their collections of black literature.

Science fiction for juveniles is often introduced in the "Space Ship" books. Louis Slobodkin, their author, likes to keep his ideas on their proper perspective. After all, he says, "The little boy who was the inspiration for Lord Fauntleroy with his long golden curls grew up to be a bald-headed bookseller. His books reflect his philosophy that his heroes, too, will become adult in due time."

Maud and Miska Petersham's books have remained popular for three generations. Their goal was not only to give pleasure to a child, but to awaken in him a love for books and a feeling for the many simple, beautiful things in the world. They feel that the books a child has as his very own influence his own life.

Some writers, like Irene Hunt and Madeline L'Engle, simply write their stories and let them speak for themselves. "Across Five Aprils" and L'Engle's "Dance in the Desert" have appeal for a wide age range.

Books do influence children. Therefore, it is vastly important to choose that are not only acceptable, but downright good. The library has fine lists of books for all ages and will be glad to furnish them on request.

Seek Block To Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two powerful Senate Democrats suggested Wednesday that legislation be introduced to stop temporarily the National Rail Passenger System from beginning operations May 1.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana told the Senate Commerce Committee at a hearing on Amtrak that, if such legislation were introduced in the Senate Friday, he would assure that it would be immediately considered. Mansfield is Senate majority leader.

The Commerce Committee chairman, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he was agreeable to the suggested legislation that would stymie the system for six months until it could be further studied.

Mansfield said if the Amtrak system does begin on schedule Saturday it would be a "monumental transportation disaster."

He noted Montana will have passenger service only along the northern part of the state and will serve about 20 per cent of the state's population.

Seek Block To Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two powerful Senate Democrats suggested Wednesday that legislation be introduced to stop temporarily the National Rail Passenger System from beginning operations May 1.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana told the Senate Commerce Committee at a hearing on Amtrak that, if such legislation were introduced in the Senate Friday, he would assure that it would be immediately considered. Mansfield is Senate majority leader.

The Commerce Committee chairman, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he was agreeable to the suggested legislation that would stymie the system for six months until it could be further studied.

Mansfield said if the Amtrak system does begin on schedule Saturday it would be a "monumental transportation disaster."

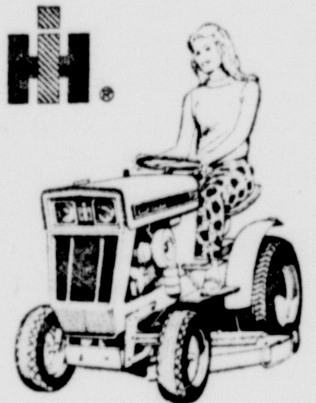

He noted Montana will have passenger service only along the northern part of the state and will serve about 20 per cent of the state's population.

No. 48 Rediscovery of great merits of American painters of the 19th century is rewarding possessors of works by Thomas Eakins, Charles E. Burchfield, Edwin Howland Blashfield, Frederic Remington, John Kane, Winslow Homer, Eastman Johnson, among others. Eakins' Cowboys in the Badlands (1888) sold recently for $210,000, far more than has been given for any painting done in the U.S. since 1917. That was the year Robert Henri, George Luks, John Sloan and others dubbed "the Ash Can School," declared a rebellion against classicism and sentiment, in favor of impressionism and abstractionism fashionable in France.

The year 1971 is the centennial of both James McNeill Whistler's most famous painting, with his mother as model, and Family Group, by Eastman Johnson, who is hailed now as a portraitist whose works are "authentic and valuable historical documents of their period."

Family Group, a treasure of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, depicts eleven children of Alfrederich Hatch, their parents, and paternal grandparents in the library of the Hatch New York residence. Hatch was one of the financiers who raised most of the money needed by the Union for the Civil War. The artist, whose baptismal name (born Lovell, Me., 1824) was Jonathan Eastman Johnson, did portraits of notables in New England and Washington, D.C. as a teenager. He went to Netherlands in his twenties to study and produced works there which brought an offer of appointment as court portraitist. He declined, to return to U.S. as genre painter in the spirit of Dutch masters. He was praised, as quoted above, for such subjects as Old Kentucky Home, Husking Bee, Sunday Morning, Old Whalers, others, while he also continued portraiture of classic quality, exemplified by Family Group. "They bore the stamp of originality, sympathetic treatment, and a vein of humor," The historian Richard Morris said, "Figure painting in the U.S. reached a new level with the work of Eastman Johnson."

Johnson's initial instruction in art was in same Boston lithography shop where Winslow Homer served apprenticeship.

"Family Group" by Eastman Johnson, 1871. Alfrederich Hatch is at the desk [right]. Johnson charged him $1,000 per each head in the painting, fifteen in all including infant on a sister's lap.

Claim Viet Officials Involved In GI Drug Use Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee says high-ranking, corrupt South Vietnamese officials were involved in drug traffic that killed 40 U.S. GIs last year and accounted for 22,000 trips to sick call.

No evidence was found to support an early suspicion that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were responsible for the rapid increase of heroin use by GIs in Vietnam, it said.

Altogether there were 160 deaths due to drugs and alcohol among U.S. forces worldwide, the special House Armed Services subcommittee said in a report released Tuesday. Drugs were suspected in another 56 GI deaths in Asia and the Pacific area.

The report said up to 10 per cent of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam could be using hard drugs. It blamed what it called an increasingly serious heroin problem on abundant supplies from processing laboratories in Laos, with heroin coming also from Thailand and Hong Kong.

"Drug suppression in Vietnam is almost completely ineffective," it said, "partially because of an ineffective local police force and partially because some presently unknown corrupt officials in public office are involved in the drug traffic."

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. G. Elliott Hagan, D-Ga., estimated 50 to 60 per cent of all servicemen use or have experimented with drugs, mostly marijuana, and said the percentage in Vietnam is probably higher.

A recent report from the Pacific Command said 1,404 GIs were hospitalized from drug use in Vietnam in 1970 and estimated from 1,800 drug-related cases in sick call in December there were 22,000 for the full year.

The finding that "high government officials" in the South Vietnamese government are involved in drug traffic was based on a briefing from two U.S. civilian narcotics agents in Saigon.

They said opium and heroin are smuggled by the traditional ethnic Chinese traffickers, who are aided by corrupt officials.

"While it's democratic, the plain and simple facts are that the military rules the government in this country," an agent said. "In that situation the participation of military officials in the traffic is greatly facilitated."

Dear Editor:

The present crowding of children at the grade school level and the projected crowding next fall in the high school have forced the school board to place a bond issue on the ballot May 4th.

Because of careful planning in the past they are able to keep the cost for additional rooms at this time down to 0.791 mill. Since 0.4 mill of a previous bond issue is being retired the net increase is less than 0.4 mill.

To continue to give the children of this community the education they need, your vote is needed. Don't be the person who feels he might as well stay home this time since there are few political candidates on the ballot. Support Circleville children. Go to the polls and vote for Issue No. 1.

NEW YORK (AP) — There is something about watching reruns of a television series after it has been canceled. Very often it looks a little better than it did the first time.

"The Men from Shiloh," for instance, started the season looking less interesting as family entertainment than it did through all those seasons when, as "The Virginian," the half-dozen series regulars worked as a team. The stars were split up, each having his own adventures.

Obviously, the remodeling failed, and the series is down the NBC drain. Still, Wednesday night's story which the Virginian-James Drury—had to himself added up to acceptable escape fare.

It was one of those oft-told Western tales in which the hero is mistaken for a murderer and almost hanged. In this case, the noble, steely-eyed Virginian escaped the noose that was literally around his neck and galloped off to find the culprit. There was the usual amount of skulking around and shooting, but it kept the viewer awake. It is hard to see how one could sit quietly through it for a second time, however.

THE GOOD BOOK—Undamaged, the Bible is carried from the burning Union Methodist Church by Fire Chief Richard Klockner in Mercerville, N.J., as other firemen pour water on the ruins. An explosion started the fire.

Building Program Started For Lowery Lane Mission

The board of trustees of the Circleville Community Mission has initiated plans to add a 12 by 24-foot addition to the Lowery Lane Mission.

The addition will provide restrooms and class rooms for the church, which was built in 1957. Cost of the addition has been estimated at $7,500.

Letters seeking contributions and pledges have been sent to many of the churches of the area. Some have responded by taking a free will offering and others have pledged funds to be paid over a specified period of time.

Presently the board has nearly half of the needed amount in cash and pledges from the churches that have responded. Individuals who would like to contribute to the Lowery Lane Mission Building Fund may send their contributions and pledges to Charles Wellman, 826 N. Court St., who is treasurer of the project.

WELLMAN is chairman of the board of trustees of the Circleville Community Mission. Other trustees are: Charles Walters, Ted Koch, Roy Heimbach, Delbert Ash, Dick Plum, Montford Kirkwood, William Lutz, Mrs. David Yates.

Walters is vice chairman and Kirkwood is treasurer. The secretary of the board is named by the Circleville Bible College and is Ronald Hood.

The Lowery Lane mission had its beginning in the mid-1950s when some students of the Circleville Bible College began ministering to the spiritual needs of the people of the area.

Their first meeting place was an abandoned shack which had once been a grocery store on Lowery Lane.

The students carried on for several months, financing their efforts with their own funds. Some people in local churches heard of the project and gave assistance in the form of song books, gifts and offerings. In the winter of 1956 the old building burned down.

A SUGGESTION was made to the Pickaway County Ministerial Assn. that they sponsor a mission church in the area. On Nov. 13, 1956 the Circleville Community Mission was approved as a non profit organization to promote Christian religion and service to those in need.

The first meeting was held at the Community United Methodist Church to form the organization. The minister and one layman from each church in Pickaway County was invited to attend. These people constituted the membership. Various plans of procedure were discussed, resulting in the formation of a board.

Nine trustees were elected to the board for three year terms. The executive officers consisting of a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer were elected from the trustees. Since that time the first Monday in October of each year an organizational meeting is held to elect or reelect trustees and executive officers.

The lot where the present church is was donated by Joe Moats. Plans were drawn and approved and construction of the present building was started in February, 1957. Raymond Moats was the builder. The church was dedicated June 3, 1957.

Chairs were used until February 1958 when pews were purchased. After water became DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Miami Conservancy District, which is primarily a flood control group, Wednesday announced plans for three public hearings on a regional water quality improvement plan.

The southwestern Ohio district, which is concerned generally with the areas of the Great and Little Miami Rivers, reported the hearings will be conducted by the League of Women Voters in Piqua June 21, at Dayton June 22 and Hamilton June 23.

L. Bennett Coy, head of the Dayton-based organization, said the women's league merely would sponsor the meetings but make no findings.

The district has been working on the water quality improvement plan with a $968-$500,000 federal and state grant which will expire in December.

Before that time the final plan must be presented.

Coy said it is planned to hold later hearings in November and December in Troy, Dayton and Middletown.

available in the area it was piped into the church. A few years later the adjoining property was purchased on which a non livable house stood. It was removed and the area cleaned up and grass seed planted, making a nice recreational site and improving the appearance of the area.

The mission has always been an inter-denominational mission supported by all Pickaway County interested churches. It was agreed at the beginning the Bible College would supply the mission with student pastors. In addition to the spiritual needs of the area, they have contributed to the social needs of the community by sponsoring boy scouts, girl scouts and youth meetings.

Amanda-Clearcreek Renews Teaching Contracts For 34

Thirty-four teaching contracts were renewed at a special meeting Tuesday of the Amanda-Clearcreek Board of Education.

These were one to five year extensions of contracts that were due to expire this year. Eleven supplemental contracts have been offered in athletic, yearbook and library areas.

To date the A-C board has received six resignations and employed one teacher replacement. These names will be released at a later date.

Board members gave approval for nine students to attend Lancaster Vocational School for the 1971-72 term.

Steven Gahn, presently employed as sixth grade teacher at Stoutsville, was accepted for employment in the remedial reading area. Title I coordinator, assistant principal at Stoutsville and curriculum coordinator of the elementary schools.

A large number of students and parents attended the Apr. 27 meeting to speak on behalf of James Luellen, music instructor, who had submitted his resignation. They asked the board to reconsider its acceptance of his resignation. Board members expressed opinions in favor of Mr. Luellen's work and said they would like him to remain with the music program.

During the regular April meeting of the board, purchase was approved of an International school bus from Lancaster Implement Co. and Vic Lahman-Thomas Bus Sales for chassis and body. Total purchase price $8,671.35.

A member of the Athletic Boosters discussed with the board the possibility of installing gates in the high school building. The proposal was referred to the building and grounds committee. The Booster club also sought authority to install lights outside on the basketball court and a chain link fence around the football and baseball areas. Plans to construct a field house was held to discussion.

The calendar for Amanda-Clearcreek's 1971-72 season was adopted. Students will begin classes Aug. 30. Holidays accepted include three days for the county fair, three at Easter and Feb. 21 for President's Day. June 2 will be the final day in session for students.

Board members authorized the change of the school's major medical insurance from Aetna Insurance Co. to Phoenix Insurance Co.

17 Injured In Texas Tornado

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seventeen persons were taken to hospitals with injuries Wednesday night after what was described as a tornado struck the tiny town of Garrett, southeast of Dallas.

Two mobile homes were destroyed and a number of other houses and a service station were damaged heavily at Garrett. Other moderate to heavy damage was reported at Waxahachie and Ennis, in the same general area.

Tornadoes spun out of heavy thunderstorms in wide areas of Texas through Wednesday, dipping generally into open country from Abilene to deep into east Texas.

Gail and high winds accompanied the storms in other sections of Texas and Oklahoma.

Gentler rain dampened the Northeast from Pennsylvania to New England, and light drizzle and snow chilled the area around Lake Superior.

Fair and dry weather was the rule for most of the rest of the nation.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 30 to Evanston, Casper and Laramie, Wyo., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

THE GOOD BOOK—Undamaged, the Bible is carried from the burning Union Methodist Church by Fire Chief Richard Klockner in Mercerville, N.J., as other firemen pour water on the ruins. An explosion started the fire.

Building Program Started For Lowery Lane Mission

The board of trustees of the Circleville Community Mission has initiated plans to add a 12 by 24-foot addition to the Lowery Lane Mission.

The addition will provide restrooms and class rooms for the church, which was built in 1957. Cost of the addition has been estimated at $7,500.

Letters seeking contributions and pledges have been sent to many of the churches of the area. Some have responded by taking a free will offering and others have pledged funds to be paid over a specified period of time.

Presently the board has nearly half of the needed amount in cash and pledges from the churches that have responded. Individuals who would like to contribute to the Lowery Lane Mission Building Fund may send their contributions and pledges to Charles Wellman, 826 N. Court St., who is treasurer of the project.

WELLMAN is chairman of the board of trustees of the Circleville Community Mission. Other trustees are: Charles Walters, Ted Koch, Roy Heimbach, Delbert Ash, Dick Plum, Montford Kirkwood, William Lutz, Mrs. David Yates.

Walters is vice chairman and Kirkwood is treasurer. The secretary of the board is named by the Circleville Bible College and is Ronald Hood.

The Lowery Lane mission had its beginning in the mid-1950s when some students of the Circleville Bible College began ministering to the spiritual needs of the people of the area.

Their first meeting place was an abandoned shack which had once been a grocery store on Lowery Lane.

The students carried on for several months, financing their efforts with their own funds. Some people in local churches heard of the project and gave assistance in the form of song books, gifts and offerings. In the winter of 1956 the old building burned down.

A SUGGESTION was made to the Pickaway County Ministerial Assn. that they sponsor a mission church in the area. On Nov. 13, 1956 the Circleville Community Mission was approved as a non profit organization to promote Christian religion and service to those in need.

The first meeting was held at the Community United Methodist Church to form the organization. The minister and one layman from each church in Pickaway County was invited to attend. These people constituted the membership. Various plans of procedure were discussed, resulting in the formation of a board.

Nine trustees were elected to the board for three year terms. The executive officers consisting of a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer were elected from the trustees. Since that time the first Monday in October of each year an organizational meeting is held to elect or reelect trustees and executive officers.

The lot where the present church is was donated by Joe Moats. Plans were drawn and approved and construction of the present building was started in February, 1957. Raymond Moats was the builder. The church was dedicated June 3, 1957.

Chairs were used until February 1958 when pews were purchased. After water became available in the area it was piped into the church. A few years later the adjoining property was purchased on which a non livable house stood. It was removed and the area cleaned up and grass seed planted, making a nice recreational site and improving the appearance of the area.

The mission has always been an inter-denominational mission supported by all Pickaway County interested churches. It was agreed at the beginning the Bible College would supply the mission with student pastors. In addition to the spiritual needs of the area, they have contributed to the social needs of the community by sponsoring boy scouts, girl scouts and youth meetings.

OU President Chides State For Delay In Investigation

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University President Claude R. Sowle chided Gov. John J. Gilligan Wednesday for his delay in calling for a grand jury investigation into business dealings at the school.

Gilligan's office announced April 9 he would ask Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to conduct the grand jury probe. But officials in Brown's office said no letter of request has been received.

"The governor and his staff could have drafted 20 such letters in the time they have spent talking to the press about this," Sowle said. "We are eager to have an investigation."

Robert Tenenbaum, Gilligan's press aide, said in Columbus Wednesday a letter would be sent to Brown "hopefully this week" and "a grand jury investigation will be called."

The press of other business has delayed the letter, according to Tenenbaum. He said Gilligan's executive counsel, James M. Friedman, is drafting the letter for the governor, and he "want to be very careful with the wording of the letter" so there will be no mistake about the scope of the probe.

Tenenbaum denied that political pressure from former OU President Vernon R. Alden and other Democrats had delayed calling the investigation.

Sowle also said he did not believe political pressure was the reason for the delay. "I cannot believe that he (Gilligan) would be influenced by political pressures," Sowle said.

The proposed grand jury probe stems from newspaper reports alleging that trustees of the university and its nonprofit, fund-raising arm, the Ohio University Fund, have done private business with the school.

Wilmington Accord Set With Students

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Wilmington College Wednesday announced tentative agreement with a black student organization on their list of demands made during an 18-hour sit-in at the school's administration building Friday.

There was no violence during the demonstration by the "Concerned Black Students" conducted during a three-day series of events commemorating the inauguration of President Dr. Robert H. Shaw.

Hinshaw had spurned traditional inauguration ceremonies insisting on "learning" activities on the history of man. Lectures and entertainment were held.

The agreement reported by the University calls for:

Attempts to recruit two new black faculty members and one for the administration staff; establishment of a black cultural center for both blacks and whites; addition of four courses relating to black academics for both blacks and whites; a black administrator to work in the field term office to aid the financial aid director; allocation of $1,000 for a black cultural activities center; a statement by the university that allocation for financial aid will depend on the outcome of state and federal legislation that "it should be near $100.00 for blacks."

The black students made no comment on the announced agreement.

Hold Dancer In Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — A downtown go go dancer remained in the Cincinnati Workhouse today in lieu of $5,000 bond as a material witness in the death of John Dockery, 72, found entombed Saturday in concrete in the closet of his hotel room.

Mrs. Durinda Fathergill, alias Judy Steadman, 22, of Covington, Ky., appeared before Judge Paul Gilday Wednesday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court following her early morning arrest.

She listed her occupations as a dancer at the Capitol Cafe in downtown Cincinnati.

Police earlier signed a warrant for the arrest of Paul Buccilli, 45, former caretaker of the building where Dockery lived. Dockery had been missing since Christmas, police said, and Social Security checks made out to him since have been cashed.

Police used sledge hammers and crow bars to break open the two-foot concrete slab containing the body after they received a tip. Dockery died of a massive skull fracture, the Hamilton County Coroner ruled.

Hospital Association Backs Gilligan Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's proposed program of increased medical care for the needy received the support Wednesday of the Ohio Hospital Association.

Donald R. Newkirk, association president, said the program would bring in $218 million in federal money with a state outlay of $10.8 million. He said there are an estimated 400,000 Ohioans who have limited access to the health care system.

Hospitals for years have been caring for these people on a charity basis, Newkirk said, and have had to add the cost of treating them to the paying patients.

Social Security Answers

Q. I am nearly 65. The company for which I have worked as a secretary for over 40 years has compulsory retirement at 65. Will my monthly social security retirement benefits start automatically when the company retires me?

A. No. You must apply for your social security benefits. Get in touch with any social security office about 3 months before you retire.

Q. I have been getting monthly social security disability benefits for a little over a year. Next year I will be 65. Will my disability benefits increase then?

A. No. When you reach 65, your disability benefits are changed over to retirement benefits. But the amount you receive each month will remain the same.

Q. My husband I are both retired and getting monthly social security benefits on our own records. We just started working part time and will each earn nearly $1,000 this year. Is it true that we will lose some social security benefits because our combined earnings are almost $2,000?

A. No, it isn't. You and your husband can each earn up to $1,680 in a calendar year without losing any social security benefits.

Q. I collect monthly social security benefits as a widow. I have my own social security number, but I have never worked outside the home. Will my family be able to get a payment from social security to help pay my burial expenses when I die?

A. No. Your family would not receive a lump-sum death payment if you have never worked under social security.

Promising Drug For Arthritis

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthritis and all its weakening effects on equines and canines (8 million horses and 25 million dogs) may become a thing of the past if a new drug called NeoArth lives up to its promise.

The Generics Corporation of America has developed this new drug which has proved successful on 76 per cent of the afflicted horses in New York and Florida, says Dr. J. O. Reed, DVM, who is Generics' director of veterinary medicine.

Hope is being expressed that future research may provide a similar breakthrough in the treatment and relief of human arthritis.

It is believed that 50 per cent of all dogs over age 5 suffer from arthritis, says the GCA.

Lancaster Jury Hears Of Alibis

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Defense attorneys were expected to attempt today to establish alibis for two men being tried for the shooting of a policeman in Cincinnati last August.

In their opening statements, lawyers for Gerrard Harvey, 21, and Clifford Davenport, 20, said they would prove the defendants were elsewhere at the time Patrolman Edmund Schindler was shot in his cruiser.

The state rested its case Wednesday in the trial being held in Fairfield County Common Pleas Court on a change of venue.

Among the prosecution's final witnesses were Cincinnati Patrolmen Melvin Butler and Walter Barwick, who told of a shootout last Sept. 1 between police and the defendants as they were being sought for the Schindler shooting.

Davenport and Harvey escaped apprehension then. Davenport surrendered the next day and Harvey was arrested in Cleveland Oct. 24.

Schindler recovered from his wounds and has returned to duty. He testified for the prosecution Tuesday and told the jury Harvey was the man who held the gun.

Free Enterprise In Medicine Affirmed At AAPS Meeting

Returning this week from a national meeting of private medical doctors in Chicago, Robert G. Smith, M.D., Circleville surgeon, said the cause of private medical practice is "stronger than ever because it is right in terms of the American patient."

This new emphasis on the patient and the patient's mutual-trust relationship with his personal physician emerged at a meeting of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Dr. Smith said. AAPS represents many thousands of doctors in 1,300 counties and all 50 states. In most cases these doctors are self-employed.

The local doctor and his colleagues spelled out five main losses that they thought a patient — any patient — would sustain in the event compulsory nationalized medicine is ever decreed in this country. He said these losses would be:

The independent judgment of the patient's doctor. "Now, under our private medical system, I am free to do my very best for each of my patients," he said. "Eventually, should medicine ever be nationalized, the government would tell me whether to treat a particular person, how, why, when, at what cost and with which government-stocked drugs."

The patient's confidential relationship with his doctor. The local doctor mentioned income tax returns as an example of what would happen under any national health scheme.

"Although tax returns are supposed to be confidential, they are not. My patient's medical privacy could be violated just as easily once his medical history is put on a government computer tape."

Money. "Now," according to Dr. Smith, "a patient pays once, for service rendered. Under government medicine, a patient would pay twice: once in taxes and inflation and red tape, whether or not he uses any medical service; and secondly for the doctor of his choice, since he would not want a government-controlled doctor if he could help it. A military veteran does not want to go back to sick-call medicine."

The patient's free choice of doctor. "Under private medicine, a patient can choose any doctor willing to provide the kind of conscientious personal medical care he wants. Compulsory government medicine would limit or destroy that freedom."

Dignified, personal care. This could turn out to be the greatest loss of all for a patient, should America ever turn to political medicine, according to Dr. Smith. "Under private medicine, a patient is a person to be treated with dignity and respect by a doctor who is fully responsible to him. Governmentally-retained medicine would make that same patient a mere number, and an annoyance, to the clerks and doctors who would not be directly responsible to him."

The local doctor said that once Americans learn what, exactly, they will lose if medicine is run by the government, they will soundly reject the "pie-in-the sky" national health plans being currently proposed.

"Even the genuinely poor," Dr. Smith continued, "are very much better off than the American Indians, who have been medical wards of this country for 100 years."

Among the speakers at the private doctors' meeting in Chicago were Senator Robert J. Dole of Kansas, national chairman of the Republican Party.

Maurice W. Peterson, M.D., national president of the group and other physician leaders from throughout the country, also addressed Dr. Smith and his colleagues.

Mrs. Durinda Fathergill, alias Judy Steadman, 22, of Covington, Ky., appeared before Judge Paul Gilday Wednesday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court following her early morning arrest.

She listed her occupations as a dancer at the Capitol Cafe in downtown Cincinnati.

Police earlier signed a warrant for the arrest of Paul Buccilli, 45, former caretaker of the building where Dockery lived. Dockery had been missing since Christmas, police said, and Social Security checks made out to him since have been cashed.

Police used sledge hammers and crow bars to break open the two-foot concrete slab containing the body after they received a tip. Dockery died of a massive skull fracture, the Hamilton County Coroner ruled.

Hospital Association Backs Gilligan Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's proposed program of increased medical care for the needy received the support Wednesday of the Ohio Hospital Association.

Donald R. Newkirk, association president, said the program would bring in $218 million in federal money with a state outlay of $10.8 million. He said there are an estimated 400,000 Ohioans who have limited access to the health care system.

Hospitals for years have been caring for these people on a charity basis, Newkirk said, and have had to add the cost of treating them to the paying patients.

Social Security Answers

Q. I am nearly 65. The company for which I have worked as a secretary for over 40 years has compulsory retirement at 65. Will my monthly social security retirement benefits start automatically when the company retires me?

A. No. You must apply for your social security benefits. Get in touch with any social security office about 3 months before you retire.

Q. I have been getting monthly social security disability benefits for a little over a year. Next year I will be 65. Will my disability benefits increase then?

A. No. When you reach 65, your disability benefits are changed over to retirement benefits. But the amount you receive each month will remain the same.

Q. My husband and I are both retired and getting monthly social security benefits on our own records. We just started working part time and will each earn nearly $1,000 this year. Is it true that we will lose some social security benefits because our combined earnings are almost $2,000?

A. No, it isn't. You and your husband can each earn up to $1,680 in a calendar year without losing any social security benefits.

Q. I collect monthly social security benefits as a widow. I have my own social security number, but I have never worked outside the home. Will my family be able to get a payment from social security to help pay my burial expenses when I die?

A. No. Your family would not receive a lump-sum death payment if you have never worked under social security.

Promising Drug For Arthritis

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthritis and all its weakening effects on equines and canines (8 million horses and 25 million dogs) may become a thing of the past if a new drug called NeoArth lives up to its promise.

The Generics Corporation of America has developed this new drug which has proved successful on 76 per cent of the afflicted horses in New York and Florida, says Dr. J. O. Reed, DVM, who is Generics' director of veterinary medicine.

Hope is being expressed that future research may provide a similar breakthrough in the treatment and relief of human arthritis.

It is believed that 50 per cent of all dogs over age 5 suffer from arthritis, says the GCA.

Lancaster Jury Hears Of Alibis

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Defense attorneys were expected to attempt today to establish alibis for two men being tried for the shooting of a policeman in Cincinnati last August.

In their opening statements, lawyers for Gerrard Harvey, 21, and Clifford Davenport, 20, said they would prove the defendants were elsewhere at the time Patrolman Edmund Schindler was shot in his cruiser.

The state rested its case Wednesday in the trial being held in Fairfield County Common Pleas Court on a change of venue.

Among the prosecution's final witnesses were Cincinnati Patrolmen Melvin Butler and Walter Barwick, who told of a shootout last Sept. 1 between police and the defendants as they were being sought for the Schindler shooting.

Davenport and Harvey escaped apprehension then. Davenport surrendered the next day and Harvey was arrested in Cleveland Oct. 24.

Schindler recovered from his wounds and has returned to duty. He testified for the prosecution Tuesday and told the jury Harvey was the man who held the gun.

Free Enterprise In Medicine Affirmed At AAPS Meeting

Returning this week from a national meeting of private medical doctors in Chicago, Robert G. Smith, M.D., Circleville surgeon, said the cause of private medical practice is "stronger than ever because it is right in terms of the American patient."

This new emphasis on the patient and the patient's mutual-trust relationship with his personal physician emerged at a meeting of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Smith said AAPS represents many thousands of doctors in 1,300 counties and all 50 states. In most cases these doctors are self-employed.

The local doctor and his colleagues spelled out five main losses that they thought a patient — any patient — would sustain in the event compulsory nationalized medicine is ever decreed in this country. He said these losses would be:

The independent judgment of the patient's doctor. "Now, under our private medical system, I am free to do my very best for each of my patients," he said. "Eventually, should medicine ever be nationalized, the government would tell me whether to treat a particular person, how, why, when, at what cost and with which government-stocked drugs."

The patient's confidential relationship with his doctor. The local doctor mentioned income tax returns as an example of what would happen under any national health scheme.

"Although tax returns are supposed to be confidential, they are not. My patient's medical privacy could be violated just as easily once his medical history is put on a government computer tape."

Money. "Now," according to Dr. Smith, "a patient pays once, for service rendered. Under government medicine, a patient would pay twice: once in taxes and inflation and red tape, whether or not he uses any medical service; and secondly for the doctor of his choice, since he would not want a government-controlled doctor if he could help it. A military veteran does not want to go back to sick-call medicine."

The patient's free choice of doctor. "Under private medicine, a patient can choose any doctor willing to provide the kind of conscientious personal medical care he wants. Compulsory government medicine would limit or destroy that freedom."

Dignified, personal care. This could turn out to be the greatest loss of all for a patient, should America ever turn to political medicine, according to Dr. Smith. "Under private medicine, a patient is a person to be treated with dignity and respect by a doctor who is fully responsible to him. Governmentally-retained medicine would make that same patient a mere number, and an annoyance, to the clerks and doctors who would not be directly responsible to him."

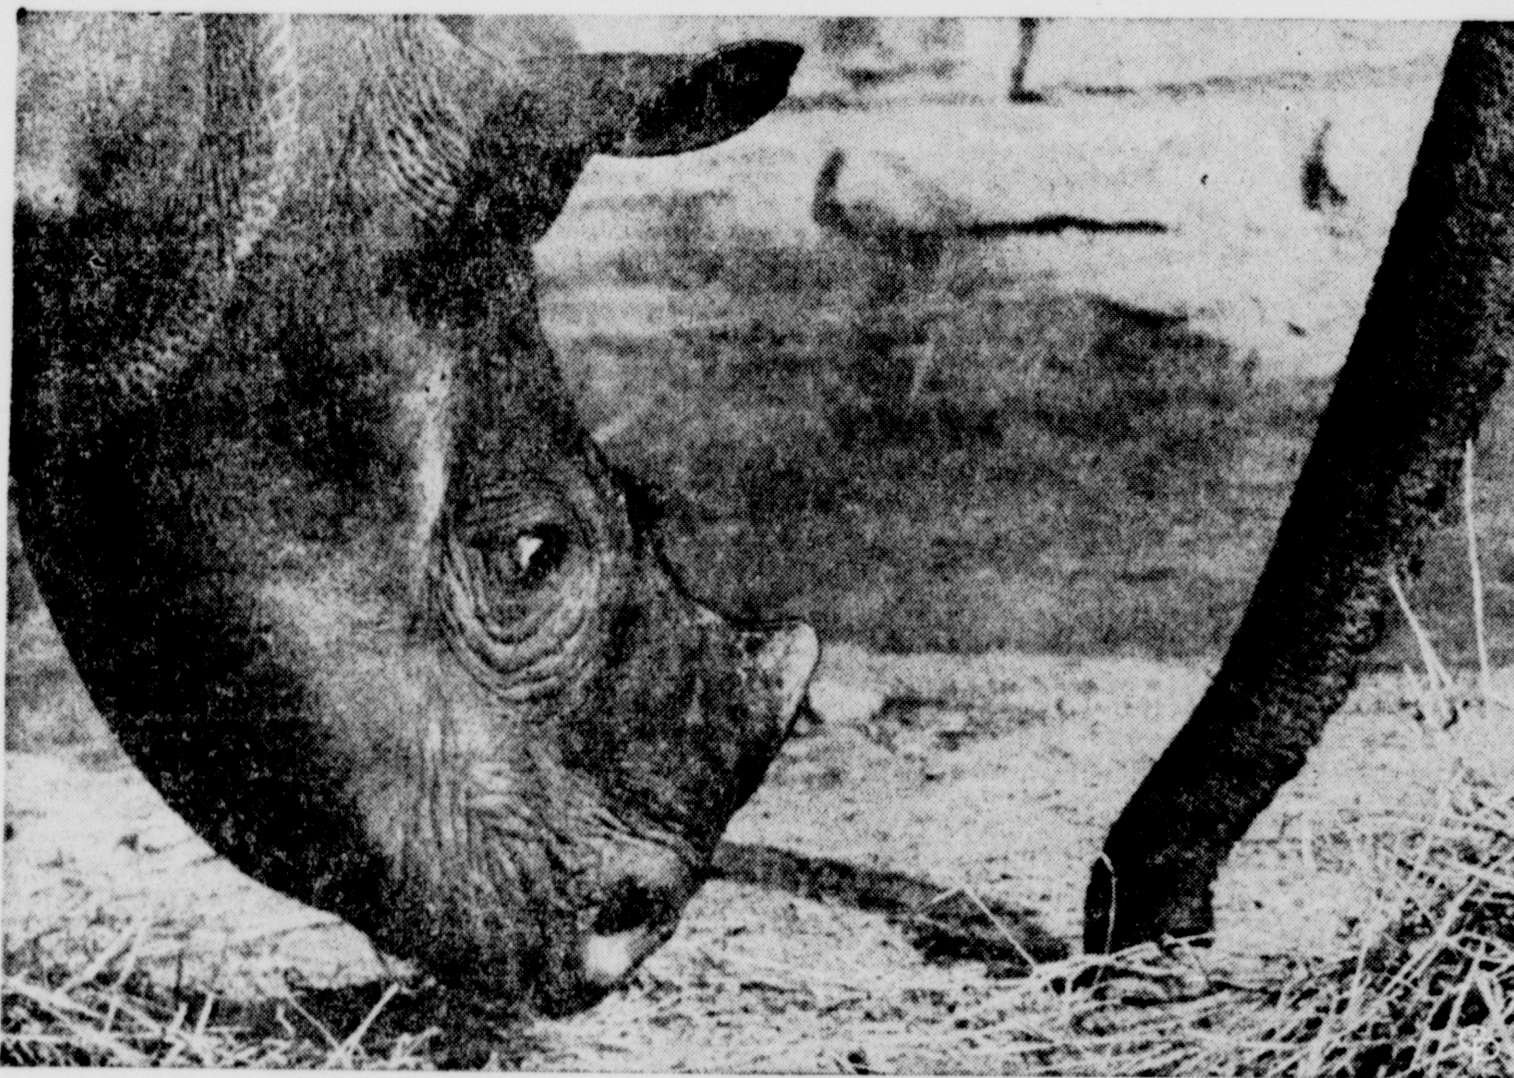

The local doctor said that once Americans learn what, exactly, they will lose if medicine is run by the government, they will soundly reject the "pie-in-the sky" national health plans being currently proposed.

"Even the genuinely poor," Dr. Smith continued, "are very much better off than the American Indians, who have been medical wards of this country for 100 years."

Among the speakers at the private doctors' meeting in Chicago were Senator Robert J. Dole of Kansas, national chairman of the Republican Party.

Maurice W. Peterson, M.D., national president of the group and other physician leaders from throughout the country, also addressed Dr. Smith and his colleagues.

Blooper By Perez Gives Reds 6-5 Win Over Padres

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I was fooled," laughed Cincinnati Red third baseman Tony Perez after he blooped a ninth inning single to defeat the San Diego Padres 6-5 Wednesday night.

Perez said he was looking for a fast ball from reliever Dick Kelley but got a slider "and it jammed me inside but I hit it."

"It was a good pitch," said Padre manager Preston Gomez, "I can't fault Kelley. He struck out one, walked Pete Rose and got Dave Concepcion to hit into the dirt giving us a force play at home."

Perez' bases loaded hit gave the Reds their second straight victory over San Diego.

Perez, who had three hits, two runs batted in and scored twice said he felt the three straight wins by the club would develop into a streak.

Jim McGlothlin, who was taken out with two outs in the ninth inning said he was surprised with his strength and control after laying off 10 days.

Red pitching coach Larry Shepard said McGlothlin got into the same trouble most pitchers do.

He got too much in a hurry after two outs in the ninth and gave up two hits."

Red Manager Sparky Anderson inserted reliever Clay Carroll who gave up a double to Al Ferrara knocking in two runs tying the score at 5-5.

"Carroll has been our best man but you can't expect him to do it everytime," said Anderson.

Gomez, in losing, said he was encouraged with his club's three attempts to come back in the game.

"This is the first time we've rallied," said Gomez, "but we can't afford to make all these errors. We're going to have to change the defense."

Although Gomez declined to announce the changes, rookie shortstop Enzo Hernandez had a critical error in the ninth inning when he threw the ball into the Reds dugout on a broken double play. He had two the night before.

Hernandez opened the game with a triple and then scored. The Reds came back on a two run homer by Johnny Bench, his seventh. Bob Barton homered in the third and Clarence Gaston snapped an 0-13 slump with a four-bagger in the fifth.

The Reds came back with two more in the fifth on a triple by Tony Perez who scored on a wild pitch himself by Al Severinsen.

The Reds and Padres wind up the series with a 12:30 p. m. game today.

Tigers Overpower Blue Lions, 11-8

Circleville downed Washington C. H., 11-8 Wednesday on the Tiger diamond although they had to survive a six run uprising on the part of the Blue Lions in the seventh inning.

The Tigers were sailing along with an 11-2 lead going into the seventh when the Lions decided to get back into the ballgame.

A combination of five walks, two hits and a Tiger error put the Red and Black in trouble until Greg Hoskins fanned Holbert to stop the threat and end the contest.

Rick Prushing started on the mound for the Tigers but ran into trouble in the fourth inning. Hoskins came on with the bases loaded, nobody out and one run already home. He took control and put out the fire without allowing another score in the inning.

Doyle Kiser and Mike Fuller led the Tigers 13-hit attack with three safeties each. Harold Smith and Mike Webb each had two hits and Gary Mogan, Chris Long and Dave Truex had a hit apiece in the winning effort.

STEVE Ross was the starter and loser for Washington and was relieved by Holbert in the fifth. Holbert had two hits to lead the Blue Lions.

The Red and Black jumped out to a two run lead in the first inning when Fuller and Smith singled and raced home on a one base rap by Webb.

Circleville added another run in the second on an extra base hit by Long and a long sacrifice fly by Gary Mogan.

A single by Kiser and double by Fuller put another marker in the Tigers' book in the third. Circleville tallied twice in the fourth on a double by Mogan, single by Kiser and two errors by Washington.

Three walks and an error by the Lions gave the Tigers another run in the fifth. The Red and Black added the four game clinching runs in the sixth on singles by Fuller, Smith and Webb and a double by Truex.

Circleville is now 7-3 for the season and 3-3 in the South Central Ohio League. They will host Miami Trace in a makeup game 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. Circleville's reserves will meet Teays Valley 4:30 p.m. Friday on the Tigers' home grounds.

Lee Trevino

Hard After

Golf Win

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Lee Trevino is dead serious about making the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament his second consecutive victory.

"You know how serious I am?" queried Trevino today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 event.

"I'll tell you how serious. I'm even staying away from Bourbon Street. All week I'm staying away. So you know I got to be serious about it."

Trevino, a fast-talking guy with an infectious grin, broke a year-long victory drought last week when he took down the $12,000 first prize in the satellite Tallahassee Open.

"In a tournament like that, I just had to win," he said. "I got to win that one to break even on expenses for the week. Second or third don't do it."

"Besides, I got tired of shooting all those fancy scores and not winning. Shooting lights out and I don't win. Had enough of that stuff."

Trevino was edged out of two titles by a total of three strokes as Gary Player scored consecutive victories earlier this season. In all, the 1968 U.S. Open title-holder has been 10th or better six times this season. He's won over $66,000.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Utah Stars will play the Kentucky Colonels for the American Basketball Association championship—but nobody knows for sure just where or when the best-of-seven series will begin.

The first game originally was scheduled for Saturday in the Salt Palace at Salt Lake City, before a nationally televised audience.

But Stars' owner Bill Daniels and General Manager Vince Boryla said the game would be played Monday because an ice show previously had been scheduled at the arena.

Blooper By Perez Gives Reds 6-5 Win Over Padres

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I was fooled," laughed Cincinnati Red third baseman Tony Perez after he blooped a ninth inning single to defeat the San Diego Padres 6-5 Wednesday night.

Perez said he was looking for a fast ball from reliever Dick Kelley but got a slider "and it jammed me inside but I hit it."

"It was a good pitch," said Padre manager Preston Gomez. "I can't fault Kelley. He struck out one, walked Pete Rose and got Dave Concepcion to hit into the dirt giving us a force play at home."

Perez bases loaded hit gave the Reds their second straight victory over San Diego.

Perez, who had three hits, two runs batted in and scored twice said he felt the three straight wins by the club would develop into a streak.

Jim McGlothlin, who was taken out with two outs in the ninth inning said he was surprised with his strength and control after laying off 10 days.

Red pitching coach Larry Shepard said McGlothlin got into the same trouble most pitchers do.

It got too much in a hurry after two outs in the ninth and gave up two hits."

Red Manager Sparky Anderson inserted reliever Clay Carroll who gave up a double to Al Ferrara knocking in two runs tying the score at 5-5.

"Carroll has been our best man but you can't expect him to do it everytime," said Anderson.

Gomez, in losing, said he was encouraged with his club's three attempts to come back in the game.

"This is the first time we've rallied," said Gomez, "but we can't afford to make all these errors. We're going to have to change the defense."

Although Gomez declined to announce the changes, rookie shortstop Enzo Hernandez had a critical error in the ninth inning when he threw the ball into the Reds dugout on a broken double play. He had two the night before.

Hernandez opened the game with a triple and then scored. The Reds came back on a two run homer by Johnny Bench, his seventh, Bob Barton homered in the third and Clarence Gaston snapped an 0-13 slump with a four-bagger in the fifth.

The Reds came back with two more in the fifth on a triple by Tony Perez who scored on a wild pitch himself by Al Severinsen.

The Reds and Padres wind up the series with a 12:30 p. m. game today.

Westfall Rips Laurelville In SVC Fray

Westfall overwhelmed Laurelville, 24-2, Wednesday in a Scioto Valley Conference baseball game at the Wildcats' field.

The Mustangs parleyed 13 hits, 17 walks and six Laurelville errors into the 24 run attack.

Randy Alkire started on the mound for Westfall and Rick Stonerock came on in the seventh to finish the ballgame. They struckout nine and gave up one free pass in the fray.

Four Laurelville pitchers were the victims of the Mustangs, striking out four.

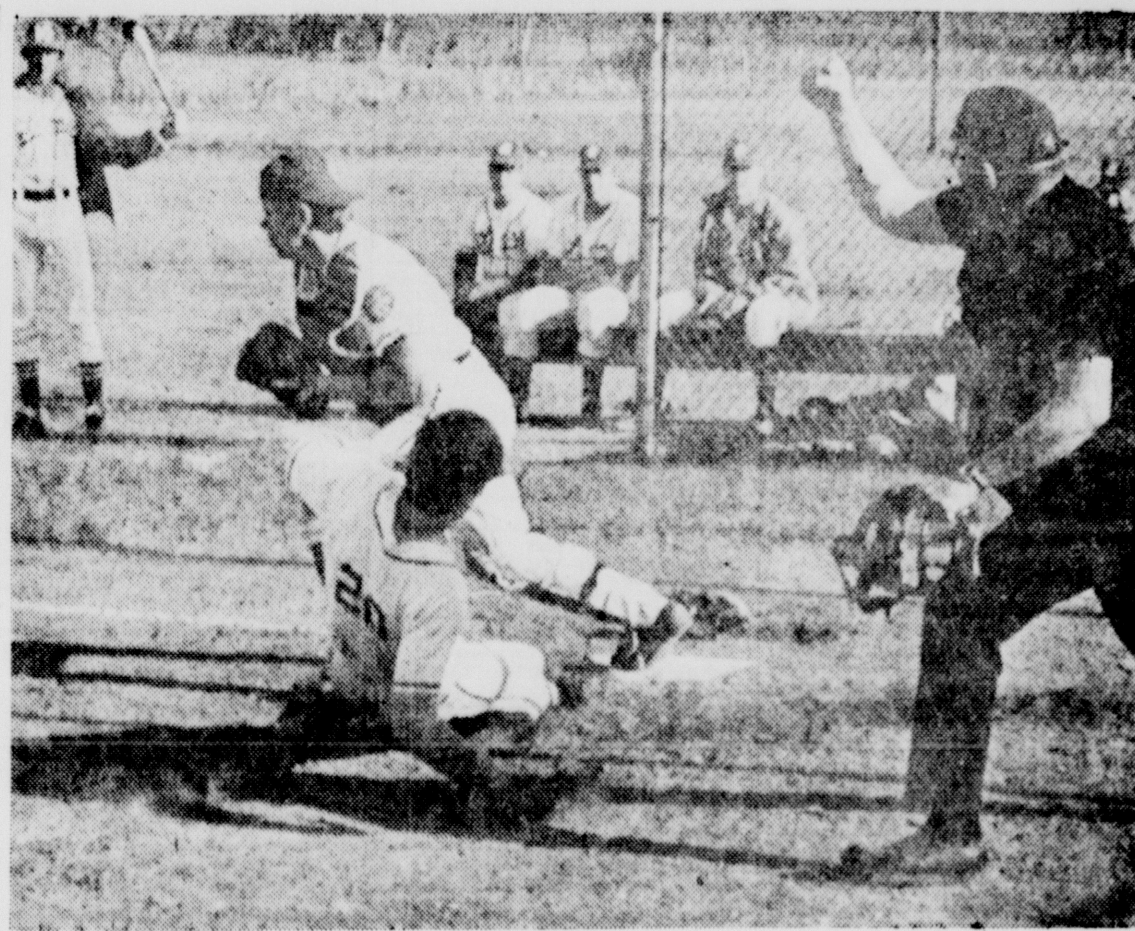

WESTFALL tallied six runs in the first, one in the second, two in the fourth, 10 in the fifth and added five more in the seventh.

Larry Harris had a homerun and triple for Westfall, Alkire had a homer and double, Larry Adams and Ted Musselman had triples, Sam Clapper and Art Dick added doubles and Stonerock, Mike Peterson, John Valone, Joe Lahrmmer and Doug McKay each had a single for the winners.

Ebert's triple and Justice's double were the big blows for the Wildcats.

Coach Paul Hoskin cleared his bench and 20 Mustangs saw action in the contest.

Westfall is now 6-4-1 for the season, 4-2-1 in the SVC and will meet Bishop Flagg tonight in Chillicothe.

Tigers Overpower Blue Lions, 11-8

Circleville downed Washington C. H., 11-8 Wednesday on the Tiger diamond although they had to survive a six run uprising on the part of the Blue Lions in the seventh inning.

The Tigers were sailing along with an 11-2 lead going into the seventh when the Lions decided to get back into the ballgame. A combination of five walks, two hits and a Tiger error put the Red and Black in trouble until Greg Hoskins fanned Holbert to stop the threat and end the contest.

Rick Prushing started on the mound for the Tigers but ran into trouble in the fourth inning. Hoskins came on with the bases loaded, nobody out and one run already home. He took control and put out the fire without allowing another score in the inning.

Doyle Kiser and Mike Fuller led the Tigers 13-hit attack with three safeties each. Harold Smith and Mike Webb each had two hits and Gary Mogan, Chris Long and Dave Truex had a hit apiece in the winning effort.

STEVE Ross was the starter and loser for Washington and was relieved by Holbert in the fifth. Holbert had two hits to lead the Blue Lions.

The Red and Black jumped out to a two run lead in the

Lee Trevino Hard After Golf Win

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Lee Trevino is dead serious about making the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament his second consecutive victory.

"You know how serious I am?" queried Trevino today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 event.

"I'll tell you how serious. I'm even staying away from Bourbon Street. All week I'm staying away. So you know I got to be serious about it."

Trevino, a fast-talking guy with an infectious grin, broke a year-long victory drought last week when he took down the $12,000 first prize in the satellite Tallahassee Open.

"In a tournament like that, I just had to win," he said. "I got to win that one to break even on expenses for the week. Second or third don't do it."

"Besides, I got tired of shooting all those fancy scores and not winning. Shooting lights out and I don't win. Had enough of that stuff."

Trevino was edged out of two titles by a total of three strokes as Gary Player scored consecutive victories earlier this season. In all, the 1968 U.S. Open title-holder has been 10th or better six times this season. He's won over $65,000.

Braves Are Victim Of Big 1st Inning At Paint Valley

A big seven run first inning by Paint Valley spelled a 10-6 defeat for visiting Logan Elm in Scioto Valley Conference baseball action Wednesday.

The Braves scored one run in the top of the first when Mike Holbrook led off with a double, was sacrificed to third by Steve Curtis and scored on a groundball out by Gary Francis.

Then in the bottom of the first the Bearcats took advantage of two hits, a sacrifice, three errors, five walks and a hit batter for their big inning.

The hosts added two more in the third on a triple, a single, a walk and an error.

IN the top of the fourth LE scored two when Rick Blankenship walked and scored on two errors and Steve Fischer walked advanced on two errors and scored on a passed ball.

In the bottom of the fourth The Bearcats ended their scoring with one run coming on an error, a stolen base, a single and a passed ball.

In the seventh the Braves got a rally going, but it fell short.

Holbrook walked, Steve Curtis singled, and Gary Francis tripled, plating both runners. He then scored on a ground out by Chuck Sims.

For Paint Valley Henderson went the first five innings before he was relieved by Chris Benner. They walked three, fanned four and allowed five hits.

For Logan Elm, Gary Wertman went all the way on the mound. He walked eight, fanned four and was touched for nine hits.

NONE of the Braves had more than one hit in the game. Francis' triple was the longest hit. Holbrook doubled, Blankenship, Curtis and Justus all singled.

Logan Elm's record is 6-7 overall and 2-4 in the Scioto

Valley Conference. The conference leader is undefeated Adena.

Next week the Braves have a full schedule, traveling to Zane Trace Monday, to Mt. Sterling Wednesday and hosting Zane Trace Friday.

Chiefs Sue Ernie Ladd For $16,000

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League have filed a $16,000 lawsuit in Jackson County Circuit Court against former defensive tackle Ernie Ladd.

The suit, charging that Ladd failed to fulfill his contract when he retired from football last July, asks compensation for advance payments totaling $16,000 plus interest on the pre-paid salary.

The contract originally ran through May of 1970 but was extended to May 1971 when Ladd was injured and couldn't play the 1969 season, the suit alleges.

Ladd announced his retirement at the start of the extended contract season.

The 6-foot-9, 300-pound Ladd recently has pursued a wrestling career and is known as "The Big Cat." He lives in Houston.

No hearing date was set for the case.

Robertson Confident Of NBA Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "I expect to win it Friday."

Oscar Robertson—the "Big O"—was holding court in the Milwaukee Bucks dressing room Wednesday night following the Bucks' 107-99 victory over the Baltimore Bullets.

Robertson wasn't bragging. He was just being factual.

"We're going to go out after the title Friday," he said. "There's just one more to go."

The Bucks hold a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven games championship playoff finals with the fourth game scheduled to be held in Baltimore Friday. A victory there would give Milwaukee its first NBA title in only its third year of existence.

Robertson was obtained in a trade by Milwaukee last year. This is the first time in his 11 years in the league that he has played in the championship finals. Unlike the younger Bucks, Oscar has shown no emotion as Milwaukee closes in on the crown.

"It's different when you're not expecting something," he explained. "But I expect to win the championship. I expect to win it Friday."

Robertson scored 20 points and was credited with 12 assists Wednesday as he helped pace the Bucks to victory. High for Milwaukee were Bob Dan-dridge with 29 points and Lew Alcindor with 23.

Several times the Bucks appeared to be running away from Baltimore only to have the Bullets spurt back into contention. The crippled visitors were led by Jack Marin's 21 points and a 20-point performance by Wes Unseld.

"I can't find anything wrong with our defense," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello.

"But our offense wasn't sharp at all. We weren't moving the ball, we were dribbling too much."

Jim French Joins Field For Derby

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Last getting to Churchill Downs and first getting to the Kentucky Derby finish line... that could be Jim French Saturday.

Frank J. Caldwell's consistent and much-traveled Santa Anita Derby winner was the last Derby candidate to arrive at the track, arriving by plane Wednesday from New York.

Jim French's name and those of as many as 20 other 3-year-olds were expected to be dropped into the entry box for the 97th running of the Derby. Entries were to close at 9:30 a.m., EDT, today.

Other leading Derby hopefuls included Arthur A. Seeligsion Jr.'s Unconscious, the Calumet Farm entry of Eastern Fleet and Bold and Able and the George Poole-trained duo of Wendell P. Rosso's Impetuosity and Pastoral Stable's Twist The Axe.

Pokt time for the 1¼-mile classic, the first race in the Triple Crown series that also includes the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, is 5:30 p.m. Television coverage will be from 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:15-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

"He's my Derby horse," is the way trainer Johnny Campo has described Jim French.

The Reds got home runs from Johnny Bench (No. 7) and Lee May (No. 1) but needed a looping bases-loaded single by Tony Perez in the ninth inning to defeat San Diego. Bob Barton and Clarence Gaston homered for the Padres, who tied the score in the top of the ninth on Al Ferrara's two-run pinch double.

Cesar Geronimo tripled home Jim Wynn, who walked with one out, to give the Astros their win over the Phillies. The losers had tied it in the ninth on doubles by Roger Freed and Ron Stone.

settled for lesser hits Wednesday. The major leagues' RBI leader boosted his total to 26 with a single in the fourth and a tie-breaking, two-run, two-out double off rookie Bob O'Brien in the seventh following an intentional walk to Roberto Clemente.

Duke Sims and Willie Crawford socked two-run homers as the Dodgers erased a 5-1 deficit in the sixth.

Ron Santo's infield hit with the bases loaded in the ninth inning gave the Cubs their winning run and foiled Montreal manager Gene Mauch's strategy of a five-man infield to protect against a ground ball finding a hole. Santo's roller struck third base. Jim Hickman homered for the Cubs' first two runs.

$6 Million Offer Made For Tribe?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today that George Steinbrenner and a group of associates are believed willing to pay a little over $6 million for the Cleveland Indians, but quoted Steinbrenner as saying he had made no formal offer for the baseball club.

Vernon Stouffer, who owns 7 per cent of the team, has set a price tag of $9 million.

Stouffer took controlling interest in the club in 1966, buying his stock at a rate that would have added up to $8 million for the total value.

Steinbrenner, chairman and chief executive officer of the American Ship Building Co., formerly owned the now defunct Cleveland Pipers basketball team. He also has been active in backing Broadway shows in recent years.

The Plain Dealer said Steinbrenner wouldn't confirm that he came up with a $6 million price tag, but admitted that he had suggested a figure based on "the team's debt and earnings."

Steinbrenner had some experts go over the Indians' books before the start of the season and came up with his figure on their advice, the newspaper said.

Giant Outfield Pounds Atlanta Braves, 5-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe Hollywood would like to remake the old movie Angels in the Outfield. It would star not Angels but Giants, San Francisco variety, with the leading role a tossup among Willie Mays, Bobby Bonds, George Foster and Ken Henderson.

Mays, who singled home the winning run Tuesday night, got a rest Wednesday and Foster and Bonds were the co-stars in a 5-3 victory over Atlanta. Foster ripped two singles, a double and his third homer, driving in three runs, and Bonds slammed home run No. 6 as the game's first hit.

The four flycatchers are battling a combined .332 Bonds .357, Mays .349, Foster .314 and Henderson .294 with 16 homers and 43 runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets battered St. Louis 9-1, Pittsburgh held off Los Angeles 7-5, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 3-2, Cincinnati edged San Diego 6-5 and Houston downed Philadelphia 4-3 in 10 innings.

Mays and Bonds are old hands at hammering NL hurlers and Henderson came into his own last season. Now Foster is coming on strong after a slow start.

Foster rapped a run-scoring single in the first inning, an RBI double in the fourth, a solo homer in the sixth and another single in the eighth. Hank Aaron, who got his 600th home run a night earlier, drove in two of the Braves' runs, moving into a sixth-place tie on the all-time list with Mel Ott at 1,860.

The Mets, who whipped St. Louis 12 times in 18 games last year, made it three in a row over the Cards behind Ed Kranepool's continued hot hitting and Gary Gentry's seven-hit pitching. Kranepool drove in three runs with as many hits as the Mets rapped 12 safeties off five Cardinal hurlers, starting with loser Mike Torrez.

Willie Stargell, who has a record 11 homers this month, settled for lesser hits Wednesday. The major leagues' RBI leader boosted his total to 26 with a single in the fourth and a tie-breaking, two-run, two-out double off rookie Bob O'Brien in the seventh following an intentional walk to Roberto Clemente.

Duke Sims and Willie Crawford socked two-run homers as the Dodgers erased a 5-1 deficit in the sixth.

McDowell Out, Tribe Wins 3-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sam McDowell wanted more wampum and the Cleveland Indians told their ace southpaw that he could take his fastball and go and whistle in the dark.
So all of a sudden, Sam settled for $72,000 and unhappily reported to spring training camp this year, vowing to have a great season despite bitter feelings against Manager Alvin Dark.
"I intend to have another good year for the Indians, but that doesn't mean I have to like working for them," said the strikeout master.
The best-laid plans of pitchers often go astray, however, and McDowell is off to one of his worst starts. He hasn't won a game, and Wednesday night departed suddenly before Cleveland took a 3-2 decision over California.
McDowell pitched well enough to win most games, but left with the contest tied 2-2 after seven strong innings. Gomer Hodge then delivered the winning run with a ninth-inning sacrifice fly to give the victory to veteran reliever Camilo Pascual.

Prior to Wednesday night's no-decision, McDowell lost 3-0 to Baltimore, 4-0 to Washington and 5-2 to Kansas City.
In the other American League games, Boston battered Milwaukee 10-3; Washington tripped Minnesota 4-3; Detroit edged Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings and Oakland took Baltimore 5-4. Rain postponed Chicago at New York.
McDowell waited a long time before deciding to report to spring training.
Dark said the contract made McDowell the second highest paid pitcher in the American League. Baltimore's Dave McNally was first with a reported $85,000.
McDowell, however, was seeking $100,000 and settled for about a $7,000 raise over his 1970 contract of $65,000. The pact included a reported bonus clause to pay Sam $80,000 for 25 victories and $100,000 for 30.

"The best pitcher in the American League last year isn't even close to being the best paid pitcher in the American League," scoffs McDowell, who led the league in strikeouts, 304, for the third straight year in a 20-12 season.
McDowell and California's Clyde Wright were locked in a strong-armed duel. The Cleveland southpaw had given up only seven hits and struckout eight before he left after seven innings. Wright allowed only six hits in eight innings of work.
John Lowenstein walked to open the Cleveland ninth, moved to third on Graig Nettles' single and roared home on Hodge's fly ball to right.
Carl Yastrzemski socked two doubles and drove in three runs and Reggie Smith lashed a home run and two singles as Boston beat Milwaukee, despite the season's first triple play by the Brewers.

Boston starter Sonny Siebert also crashed a homer and won his fourth game with relief help from Ken Tatum. Milwaukee pulled off the triple play in the third inning, but the Red Sox cashed in their other chances to build an early lead and wrapped it up with a five-run sixth.
Joe Foy and Tom McCraw came home with the tying and winning runs on Paul Casanova's infield hit as Washington rallied for three runs in the eighth to spill Minnesota. Casanova's two-out hopper to third baseman Harmon Killebrew scored Foy from third and McCraw followed him all the way from second on the throw.
Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning gave Mickey Lolich his fourth victory in the Detroit success.
Bill Freehan drew a leadoff walk from reliever Ted Abernathy and took third on Ed Brinkman's single. Lolich struck out before McAuliffe delivered his tie-breaking hit.
Tommy Davis singled home the winning run in the last of the ninth for Oakland off reliever Dick Hall.
Bert Campaneris opened the ninth with a single, raced to second on a sacrifice, then scooted home on Davis' hit after an intentional walk to Reggie Jackson.
The Athletics took two games of their three-game set with the defending World Champions.

Stars And Colonels Meet To Decide ABA Champion

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's the year of the second-place finishers in the American Basketball Association. Bill Sharman and Frank Ramsey couldn't be happier.
Sharman is coach of the Utah Stars, the team that beat the Indiana Pacers 108-101 here Wednesday night in the seventh and deciding game of the ABA West Division playoffs.
Ramsey coaches the East Division playoff champion Kentucky Colonels, who will oppose the Stars in the ABA final best-of-seven series.
Each team finished second in its division during the regular season and gained the finals by downing the regular-season division champ.
Kentucky's victory over the East Division champion Virginia Squires was virtually unexpected. Utah and Indiana ran neck and neck all season and in the playoffs.
Now the coaches of the two playoff winners, former teammates on the perennial NBA champion Boston Celtics teams of the '60s are ready to have at one another.
Ramsey sat in the stands and watched Utah come from behind with scorching third-quarter shooting to end the season for the defending ABA champion Pacers.
Sharman and Ramsey shook hands after the game and Sharman said, "It'll be great playing against you. It'll be interesting to see those plays we both stole from the old Celtics run against each other. I hope you win (three) games, but not the fourth one."

Sharman was surrounded by newsmen and spectators after the game. He was obviously relieved by his team's victory.
"This was a super team effort. When the two teams (Utah and Indiana) play, it's the one with the hot hand that wins. We shot 74 per cent in that third quarter and we played tough defense in the second half."

McDowell Out, Tribe Wins 3-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sam McDowell wanted more wampum and the Cleveland Indians told their ace southpaw that he could take his fastball and go and whistle in the dark.
So all of a sudden, Sam settled for $72,000 and unhappily reported to spring training camp this year, vowing to have a great season despite bitter feelings against Manager Alvin Dark.
"I intend to have another good year for the Indians, but that doesn't mean I have to like working for them," said the strikeout master.
The best-laid plans of pitchers often go astray, however, and McDowell is off to one of his worst starts. He hasn't won a game, and Wednesday night he departed suddenly before Cleveland took a 3-2 decision over California.
McDowell pitched well enough to win most games, but left with the contest tied 2-2 after seven strong innings. Gomer Hodge then delivered the winning run with a ninth inning sacrifice fly to give the victory to veteran reliever Camilo Pascual.

Prior to Wednesday night's no-decision, McDowell lost 3-0 to Baltimore, 4-0 to Washington and 5-2 to Kansas City.
In the other American League games, Boston battered Milwaukee 10-3; Washington tripped Minnesota 4-3; Detroit edged Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings and Oakland took Baltimore 5-4. Rain postponed Chicago at New York.
McDowell waited a long time before deciding to report to spring training.
Dark said the contract made McDowell the second highest paid pitcher in the American League. Baltimore's Dave McNally was first with a reported $85,000.
McDowell, however, was seeking $100,000 and settled for about a $70,000 raise over his 1970 contract of $65,000. The pact included a reported bonus clause to pay Sam $80,000 for 25 victories and $100,000 for 30.

"The best pitcher in the American League last year isn't even close to being the best paid pitcher in the American League," scoffs McDowell, who led the league in strikeouts, 304, for the third straight year in a 20-12 season.
McDowell and California's Clyde Wright were locked in a strong-armed duel. The Cleveland southpaw had given up only seven hits and struckout eight before he left after seven innings. Wright allowed only six hits in eight innings of work.
John Lowenstein walked to open the Cleveland ninth, moved to third on Graig Nettles' single and roared home on Hodge's fly ball to right.
Carl Yastrzemski socked two doubles and drove in three runs and Reggie Smith lashed a home run and two singles as Boston beamed Milwaukee, despite the season's first triple play by the Brewers.

Boston starter Sonny Siebert also crashed a homer and won his fourth game with relief help from Ken Tatum. Milwaukee pulled off the triple play in the third inning, but the Red Sox cashed in their other chances to build an early lead and wrapped it up with a five-run sixth.
Joe Foy and Tom McCraw came home with the tying and winning runs on Paul Casanova's infield hit as Washington rallied for three runs in the eighth to spill Minnesota. Casanova's two-out hopper to third baseman Harmon Killebrew scored Foy from third and McCraw followed him all the way from second on the throw.
Dick McAuliffe's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning gave Mickey Lolich his fourth victory in the Detroit success.
Bill Freehan drew a leadoff walk from reliever Ted Abernathy and took third on Ed Brinkman's single. Lolich struck out before McAuliffe delivered his tie-breaking hit.
Tommy Davis singled home the winning run in the last of the ninth for Oakland off reliever Dick Hall.
Bert Campaneris opened the ninth with a single, raced to second on a sacrifice, then scooted home on Davis' hit after an intentional walk to Reggie Jackson.
The Athletics took two games of their three-game set with the defending World Champions.

Stars And Colonels Meet To Decide ABA Champion

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's the year of the second-place finishers in the American Basketball Association. Bill Sharman and Frank Ramsey couldn't be happier.

Local Boy Scout Troop 52 Clears Litter From Canal

UN-LITTERING — Members of Boy Scout Troop 52 cleaned litter dumped along the Canal Road, filling a large truck. The William Richards family treated the boys to a hamburger dinner and provided the truck.

In observance of Earth Day, the National Boy Scout SOAR (Save Our American Resources) Program, and in competition for prizes in the Owens-Illinois Corporation, Help Project SOAR Contest, Troop 52 of Circleville picked up litter on April 24 along Canal Road and the adjacent canal.

The troop cleaned all the litter from the roadside over a three mile stretch. A large truck load was collected, and such items as an electric stove, a hot water heater, and a toilet commode were included in the debris.

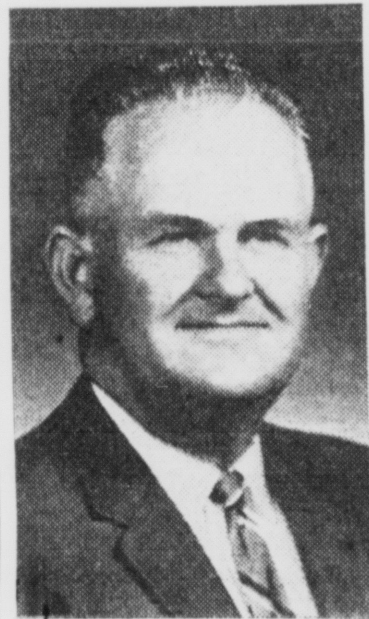

Several dead animals, victims of the road, were given decent burials so as to prevent additional pollution along the canal. Though the large items listed above were the result of illegal dumping, much of the litter was caused by thoughtless people throwing countless cans and papers from their cars. The troop hopes that now the area is cleaned, people will refrain from throwing trash along the roadside.

The boys that participated in this project were Mike Parks, Jim Heacock, Jerry Strawser, Danny Weaver, Jack Withers, Jerry Yeatts, Tracey Brown, Paul Heffelfinger, Steven Davis, Elmon Richards, David Phillips, Larry Schieber, Brent Smith, Brian Augustine, David DeFrank, Frank Withers, Ty Foster, Dick Huskey, and Tom Spring. Mr. George Huskey, assistant scoutmaster, and Mr. James Heacock, scoutmaster, assisted the boys.

The William Richards family whose farm is located on Canal Road, furnished the litter truck and also treated the boys to a hamburger lunch.

The Troop is planning several other community service projects in competition for prizes in the Owens-Illinois Corporation, Help Project SOAR Contest.

AT CBC — The Rev. John Kunkle will speak at Campus Church of Christ in Christian Union 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. He is a representative of World Gospel Mission and a former missionary to Bolivia.

Pickaway Children Services Board Serves Most In State

The Pickaway County Children Services Board serves all socio-economic groups. Services include family counseling services, placement services, residential treatment services, foster home services and adoption.

Ranking lowest in percentage of the population served is Harrison County which has .5 child per 1000.

James Grant, executive secretary of Franklin County Children Services Board, who compiled the statistics, theorizes that either Pickaway County has more dependent children, or that the Pickaway County agency is reaching out more than other county boards.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnson, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Children Services Board, expressed the opinion that: "The thrust of this community is to take care of its own, whether our own are dependent, neglected, abused, orphaned, pre-delinquent, psychotic, or otherwise troubled."

Conditions At Lima State Hospital Bad, Brown Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Calling conditions at Lima State Hospital a "damn bad situation," Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said Wednesday he hopes to see things get better there, Brown said, referring to recent allegations of mistreatment and brutality toward patients at the hospital for criminally insane.

"We are starting to get something together on this," he said, adding that he plans to talk to the hospital's acting superintendent, Dr. Theodore J. Reshetly, about changes to be made.

Brown also said laws governing the commitment of criminally insane people to the institution need to be revised.

"There are going to have to be some tests run before a man is committed to any institution like that," he said.

Reshetly, who took over the job March 29, also called for revision of the laws, saying some people committed by courts to the hospital are not criminally insane, in the hospital's view.

Meanwhile, an employee representative at the hospital said in Lima Wednesday that reports of mistreatment and brutality to patients were "hogwash and misleading."

Robert Croft, president of the hospital's chapter of the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, called the allegations "simply ghosts of a bygone era."

Croft said cases of mistreatment had been dealt with and there had been dismissals. He did not elaborate.

He also said his union would support the hospital administration and provide legal assistance to any employees who are "unjustly accused" of mistreatment.

Robert Milbaugh, a Lima attorney appointed by Brown to investigate conditions at the hospital, said he sent a package of "affidavits and letters and things" to the attorney general, but neither he nor Brown would disclose the specific contents.

Milbaugh, who accompanied a party of newsmen through the hospital Wednesday, said, "There are people suffering and dying there tonight."

Wilderness Area Slated For State

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The West Sister Island National Wildlife Refuge in Lake Erie would be preserved as undeveloped wilderness under a proposal President Nixon sent Congress Wednesday.

The 85-acre island, located 12 miles north of the south of the Tossaint River and the Magee Marsh area of Lucas and Ottawa counties, is the smallest of 14 wilderness areas in nine states proposed by Nixon.

Ohio currently has no protected wilderness areas.

Under the Wilderness Act of 1964, federally owned areas designated by Congress for wilderness status must be kept free of development.

In them, there may be no use of motorized vehicles, no mining, lumbering or other economic activities, and no construction of roads, buildings or other improvements.

Visitors can enter the areas only on foot or horseback and even the number of visitors could be restricted if necessary to preserve an area's wilderness quality.

Man Convicted In Son's Death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A common Pleas court jury convicted Charles Eugene Dixon, 21, of second-degree murder Wednesday night in the shooting death of his 3-month-old son.

Judge George B. Marshall sentenced the Columbus man to life in the Ohio Penitentiary. Dixon had been charged with first-degree murder in the killing of his son, Charles, last Aug. 15.

He testified he did not remember shooting the baby, although he recalled grabbing a gun from beneath a bed in his apartment following an argument with his wife.

The infant died of a gunshot wound in the head.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnson, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Children Services Board, expressed the opinion that: "The thrust of this community is to take care of its own, whether our own are dependent, neglected, abused, orphaned, pre-delinquent, pre-psychotic, or otherwise troubled."

She added that the agency social services are available to all socio-economic groups. Services include family counseling services, placement services, residential treatment services, foster home services and adoption.

Man Convicted In Son's Death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A common Pleas court jury convicted Charles Eugene Dixon, 21, of second-degree murder Wednesday night in the shooting death of his 3-month-old son.

Judge George B. Marshall sentenced the Columbus man to life in the Ohio Penitentiary. Dixon had been charged with first-degree murder in the killing of his son, Charles, last Aug. 15.

He testified he did not remember shooting the baby, although he recalled grabbing a gun from beneath a bed in his apartment following an argument with his wife.

The infant died of a gunshot wound in the head.

Conditions At Lima State Hospital Bad, Brown Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Calling conditions at Lima State Hospital a "damn bad situation," Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said Wednesday he hopes to see things get better there." Brown said, referring to recent allegations of mistreatment and brutality toward patients at the hospital for criminally insane.

"We are starting to get something together on this," he said, adding that he plans to talk to the hospital's acting superintendent, Dr. Theodore J. Reshetlo, about changes to be made.

Brown also said laws governing the commitment of criminally insane people to the institution need to be revised.

"There are going to have to be some tests run before a man is committed to any institution like that," he said.

Reshetlo, who took over the job March 29, also called for revision of the laws, saying some people committed by courts to the hospital are not criminally insane, in the hospital's view.

Meanwhile, an employee representative at the hospital said in Lima Wednesday that reports of mistreatment and brutality to patients were "hogwash and misleading."

Robert Croft, president of the hospital's chapter of the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, called the allegations "simply ghosts of a bygone era."

Croft said cases of mistreatment had been dealt with and there had been dismissals. He did not elaborate.

He also said his union would support the hospital administration and provide legal assistance to any employees who are "unjustly accused" of mistreatment.

Robert Milbaugh, a Lima attorney appointed by Brown to investigate conditions at the hospital, said he sent a package of "affidavits and letters and things" to the attorney general, but neither he nor Brown would disclose the specific contents.

Milbaugh, who accompanied a party of newsmen through the hospital Wednesday, said, "There are people suffering and dying there tonight."

Wilderness Area Slated For State

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The West Sister Island National Wildlife Refuge in Lake Erie would be preserved as undeveloped wilderness under a proposal President Nixon sent Congress Wednesday.

The 85-acre island, located 12 miles north of the south of the Tousey River and the Magee Marsh area of Lucas and Ottawa counties, is the smallest of 14 wilderness areas in nine states proposed by Nixon.

Ohio currently has no protected wilderness areas.

Under the Wilderness Act of 1964, federally owned areas designated by Congress for wilderness status must be kept free of development.

In them, there may be no use of motorized vehicles, no mining, lumbering or other economic activities, and no construction of roads, buildings or other improvements.

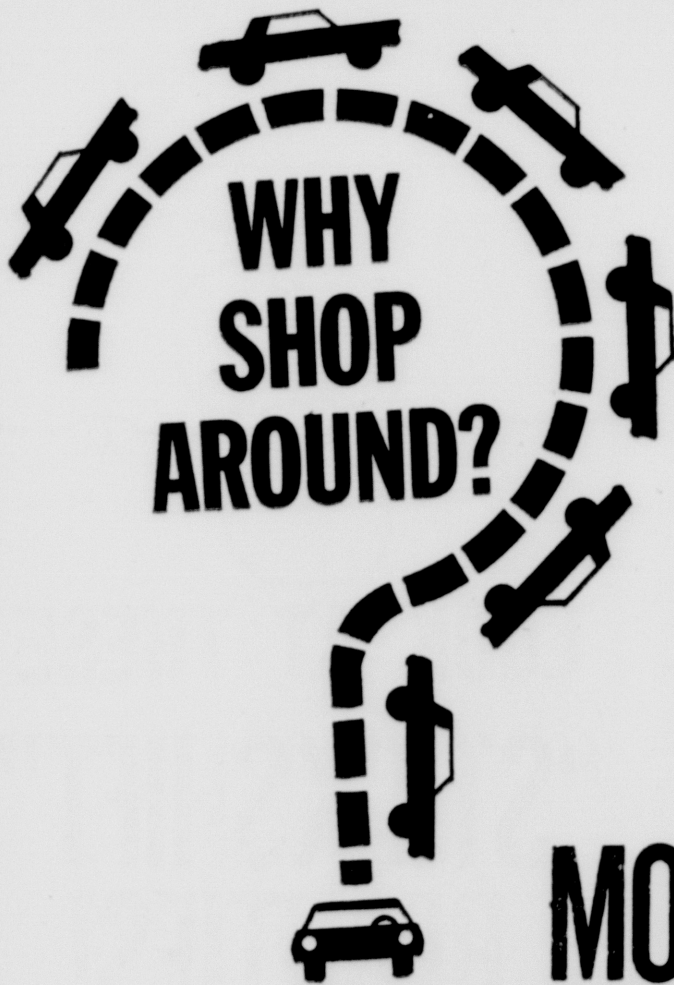

Visitors can enter the areas only on foot or horseback and even the number of visitors could be restricted if necessary to preserve an area's wilderness quality.
